Bill No. 23 of 1985

FIRE SERVICES BILL, 1985
(Published on 30th August, 1985)

MEMORANDUM

A draft of the above Bill, which it is proposed to present to the National Assembly, is set out below.

2. At present there are no adequate facilities for the extinction of fires and the protection of life and property in case of fire. The main object of the Bill is to make provision for fire services throughout the country.

3. It is therefore proposed that fire authorities which are to be responsible for the extinction of fires and the protection of life and property in case of fire should be established all over the country. For that purpose the Bill provides that a council established either under the Local Government (District Councils) Act or under the Town Council Regulations shall be the fire authority for that area of the Council.

4. For the purpose of carrying out its functions effectively, a fire authority is empowered to do a number of things. It may make arrangements with other fire authorities to pool their resources together for fire-fighting purposes or it may combine with two or more fire authorities to form one fire authority.

5. Under the proposed law, a fire authority may for fire-fighting purposes maintain a fire brigade and is required to ensure the efficient training of the members of the brigade. Provision is made for the appointment of members of a fire brigade, conditions of service and training of the members of the fire brigade.

6. The Bill further provides that a fire authority may enter into an agreement with a water authority for the supply of water to the fire authority. The water authority is required, at the request of a fire authority, to fix fire hydrants on its mains and also to maintain such hydrants. The cost of maintaining any hydrant is to be defrayed by the fire authority concerned or where an area is to be developed by the body responsible for the development. A fire authority may also secure the use, in case of fire, of water under the control of any person other than the Water Authority.

7. The Bill also lays down the powers of firemen or police officers in case of fire.

8. Finally the Bill empowers the Minister to make regulations for the purposes of giving effect to the provisions of the proposed law.

L.J.T. MOTHIBAMELE,
Minister of Local Government and Lands

- (a) it is necessary to supplement the services provided under section 3 by the authority in whose area the fire occurs; or
- (b) reinforcements at any fire can be more readily obtained from the resources of other authorities participating in the scheme than from those of the authority in whose area the fire occurs.

(2) Any reinforcement scheme made under subsection (1) and the variation or revocation of such scheme shall be notified to the Minister.

(3) Where a fire authority cannot obtain the agreement of another fire authority or other fire authorities to the making, variation or revocation of a reinforcement scheme, the Minister may, at the request of the authority and after giving all the authorities concerned an opportunity to make representations to him, direct that a scheme or variation as may be specified in the direction shall be made by the authorities or that the scheme shall be revoked, as the case may be.

(4) A reinforcement scheme may make provision for apportioning between the fire authorities concerned, in such proportions as may be specified by or under the scheme, expenses incurred in taking measures to ensure the efficient operation of the scheme.

(5) A reinforcement scheme may contain such provisions requiring uniformity of equipment as appear to the Minister to be necessary for the purpose of ensuring that the fire brigades affected will be able to render efficient assistance in pursuance of the scheme.

(6) Where a reinforcement scheme has come into operation, it shall be the duty of the fire authorities to whom the scheme applied to carry it into effect.

(7) A fire authority may enter into arrangements with persons (not being other fire authorities) who maintain fire brigades to secure, on such terms as to payment or otherwise as may be provided by or under the arrangements, the provision by those persons of assistance for the purpose of dealing with fires occurring in the area of the authority where either —

- (2) Except as expressly provided in this Act, a fire authority shall not make any charge for services rendered by the authority.
6. (1) If it appears to any two or more fire authorities that it is expedient that their areas should be combined for fire-fighting purposes, they may submit to the Minister a scheme in that behalf (hereinafter in this Act referred to as a “combination scheme”) and the Minister may by order approve any combination scheme submitted to him.
