Bill No. 21 of 1993

THE BOTSWANA HOUSING CORPORATION (AMENDMENT)
BILL, 1993

(Published on 3rd December, 1993)

MEMORANDUM

A draft of the above Bill, which it is proposed to present to the National Assembly, is set out below.

One of the main amendments proposed is the introduction of the Botswana Housing Corporation Board, which is established for the purpose of giving policy directions and guidance to the Corporation in the performance of its duties and the exercise of its functions under the Act. The Board will consist of not less than seven or more than ten members appointed by the Minister from among persons with qualifications enabling them to contribute to the successful operations of the Corporation.

One of the Board's duties will be to appoint the general manager of the Corporation, who is responsible for the day to day organization, administration and operations of the Corporation. In the past the qualifications prescribed for the general manager made it difficult to find a person with the necessary administrative experience and ability for the post. This Bill seeks to amend the prescribed qualifications to make it easier for the Board to find the right person for the job.

The Bill also seeks to broaden the prescription of the powers of the Corporation so that they may extend to cover offices for its own use and for Government, and to other buildings required by the Government, or for use in conjunction with such buildings or with housing estates built by it.

It is proposed that the financial limit on borrowing by the Corporation be lifted, but that this be subject to the approval of the Minister responsible for finance so that he can be satisfied as to the propriety of the loan and the ability of the Corporation to repay it. And the introduction of a new section 34 provides for all members of the Board and officers and employees of the Corporation to take and subscribe to an oath of secrecy with regard to the affairs of the Corporation.

Lastly opportunity has been taken, in making incidental amendments, to tidy up a number of matters in the Act and to introduce the amendments in a presentable manner, so for instance replacing large parts of the Act rather than introducing a large number of piecemeal amendments.

Minister of Local Government, Lands and Housing

Bill No. 22 of 1993

ROAD TRAFFIC (AMENDMENT) BILL, 1993

(Published on 3rd December, 1993)

MEMORANDUM

A draft of the above Bill, which it is proposed to present to the National Assembly, is set out below.

The object of the Bill is to amend the Road Traffic Act (Cap. 69 : 01), in order, amongst other things, to prescribe minimum fixed fines in respect of various minor offences in relation to which admission of guilt procedures are applied, to increase the penalties for drunken driving and related offences, to make it mandatory for the drivers of motor vehicles to have their driving licences in their possession at all times while they are driving, and to introduce the use of breath analysing devices, as well as to make admissible as evidence, the results of a breath analysis.

The specific minor offences for which fixed fines have been prescribed under the admission of guilt procedures are driving a motor vehicle without a driving licence, driving at a speed which is greater than that prescribed, failing to obey signals, road signs and markings, using a vehicle on a road where some parts of it do not comply with the requirements of the Road Traffic Act, permitting unattended animals on the road without the permission of the road authority, throwing litter on the road, and driving or acting as the conductor of a public service vehicle without a public service driving or conducting licence.

Thus clauses 2, 5, 13, 14, 19, 20 and 21 amend sections 30, 45, 56, 60, 99, 101 and 109 of the Act respectively by prescribing minimum fixed fines for the said offences.

Clause 3 amends section 36 by making it mandatory for drivers of motor vehicles to carry their driving licences while driving on public roads, and to produce them when required to do so by a police officer.

Clauses 6, 9, 10, 11, 12, 16, 17 and 18 amend sections 46, 48, 49, 50, 52, 92, 93 and 94 of the Act respectively by increasing the penalties for drunken driving and related offences such as reckless driving and causing death by reckless driving.

Clause 6 of the Bill empowers the police to require any person who is driving or is in charge of a motor vehicle to provide a specimen of breath for analysis by an authorized person by means, first of all, of a breatherlyser of a type prescribed by the Minister. Where the results of the analysis indicate that the level of alcohol in the breath of that person exceeds the limit prescribed for a specimen of breath for purposes of analysis by a breatherlyser, the police officer is empowered to require that person to provide a second specimen of breath for analysis by an alcometer.
