GENERAL NOTICE NO 1172

LOCUST REPORT, 18th AUGUST, 1938

THE AFRICAN MIGRATORY LOCUST

The last locust report dated 5th August, 1938, referred to swarms in the Lodwar, Kapenguria, Solai and Kamasia areas and at a point 100 miles north-west of Archer's Post and north of Barsaloi. Specimens from most of these swarms have been examined and in all cases they are immature specimens of the African Migratory Locust (Locusta migratoria migratoriodes). Reports received since indicate that these swarms moved in a south-easterly direction from the Lodwar-Kapenguria line of entry and in a southerly direction from Barsaloi towards North Nyeri, the swarms from Kapenguria and Lodwar passing through Solai, Laikipia and Samburu. The latest reports indicate that most of these swarms are now in the Isiolo-Meru-Timau region. No reports of locusts in Solai, Laikipia or Subukia have been received since the 5th August, except one, received on the 12th August, of a small swarm probably of stragglers, on the Subukia-Laikipia escarpment. No fresh swarms are reported to have entered Kenya. It appears therefore, that all these locusts came in from the Sudan through the Karamoja, that they progressed in a roughly south-easterly direction as far as the North Nyeri and Meru districts, and that as there has been rain in that area they are likely to remain there and to develop rapidly.

The situation in that area is given in more detail below. On the 11th August, a swarm passed Isiolo moving south from the north-west, circled and returned to Isiolo on the 12th August. On the 12th August a swarm was reported between Meru and Isiolo, the direction of flight was uncertain, but was probably towards Timau. A report was received on the 17th August that this swarm was approaching the North Kenya farms on the Meru border, having come from the north-east, but that it appeared reluctant to enter or cross the Meru Forest. On the 13th August, a swarm was reported 17 miles north-east of Isiolo, moving south. Reports were received on the 12th August of swarms in the Samburu country moving east to Isiolo. These swarms are probably those which are now in the Isiolo area. Swarms or parts of swarms may still remain in the Solai-Laikipia region and elsewhere along the route from the north-west to Isiolo. The paths followed by swarms have mostly been in desert country, with the exception of Solai and Laikipia, until the North Nyeri farms were reached. The Uasin Gishu and Fort Hall districts are reported to be free from locusts. So far, little damage to crops or pasture has been reported.

It is not considered that there is an immediate danger of egg-laying in any locality. As no further reports have been received of fresh invasions from the north-west it is hoped that, for the time being at least, the invasion has ceased. Information which will state the likelihood of continued invasion from the Sudan is expected at any moment. Unless a fresh invasion complicates the position, it should be possible to ensure the destruction of all eggs and hoppers from the swarms now in Kenya. In order to facilitate this work, the public is again reminded of the urgency of reporting early the presence and movements of swarms to the Agricultural Department. Reports should always be accompanied by specimens, sent in dry, roomy containers to which air has free access, in order to prevent the decomposition of the specimens.

THE RED LOCUST

No swarms of this species have been reported since the 14th July, when a swarm was known to have moved into the Nandi District from Kibigori. That swarm was infested with worms and it is reasonable to anticipate that this infestation will destroy it before egg-laying commences.
