LOCUST REPORT, 1st SEPTEMBER, 1938

THE AFRICAN MIGRATORY LOCUST (Locusta migrator a migratorioides)

Situation in Kenya—Since the publication of the last Locust Report, dated 18th August, 1938, reports received indicate that the swarms which entered Kenya from the north-west through the Karamoja at the end of July and early in August, and which proceeded in roughly a south-easterly direction as far as the North Nyeri and Meru region, have remained circling in that region. They have mostly been thin swarms with no definite direction of flight and it has been impossible to keep track of each individual swarm. Reports indicate that yellowing of the insects, which is a sign of increasing maturity, has commenced

From about the 16th August onward more swarms entered Kenya from the Sudan via Kaiamoja The area from which this fresh invasion was reported was approximately in the latitudes and longitudes 1° 20′ N to 4° 45" N and 34° 50" E to 36° E This invasion also proceeded in a south-easterly direction but with a more southerly trend Swarms were reported on the east side of Elgon and in the West Suk Reserve on the 26th, on the 27th swarms were reported from East Suk, on the 30th from Southern Suk and on that date also, at a point 7 miles east of Eldama Ravine This last swarm was reported to be yellowing Latest reports thus indicate that the fresh invasion reached the Eldama Baringo area on about the 30th August It is probable, of course, that other sections of this invasion are in the desert country in the neighbourhood of Baisaloi, also proceeding in a south-easterly direction, but no reports of this have been received

The Uasin Gishu and Fort Hall districts have been reported to be free of locusts up to the 25th and 29th August respectively. The good rains of Meru still appear to attract swarms of this species

The spread of rains in other districts may cause locusts to remain at other points on their route from the north-west to the south-east. Specimens received by the Entomologist from Rumuruti and from several places in the neighbourhood of Meru, from swarms which entered Kenya at the beginning of August, show that the locusts are still immature but that the ovaries are developing and that a few of the males have a definite yellowing of the hind legs. It is especially important that watch should be kept on these earlier swarms in the Meru-Nanyuki district. It is requested that the presence of completely yellow individuals should be reported immediately

Latest report from the Sudan—The latest report from the Sudan indicates that egg-laying and the emergence of hoppers has only occurred between latitudes 13° 0" and 18° 0" N and longitudes 31° 0" and 37° 0" E except for a small amount in the extreme west of the territory near French Equatorial Africa Fliers are reported mainly from the same areas with one or two scattered swarms in the Equatorial Province, north-west of Juba The general tendency is to spread in northeriy and north-easterly directions throughout the Central and Northern Sudan, to as far as latitude 11° N Control measures are now being taken against all hopper swarms and the situation is reported to be well in hand. It is surmised that in the Sudan the present hopper swarms which escape destruction will reach maturity during the latter half of September, so a migration southwards of these potential swarms may be expected to start in October

It is evident that the swarms which have entered Kenya are out-lyers of the main group and it is possible that there will be no further invasion until the forecast invasion in October of escapes from the present destruction campaign in the neighbourhood of Khartoum

THE RED LOCUST (Nomadacris septemfasciata)

Kenya—No reports of the presence in the Colony of this locust have been received since the 14th July

Uganda Report dated 23rd August for the month of July—There was little change in the distribution of locusts and very few flights were observed. Some further egg-laying by small scattered swarms occurred in south-west Teso and by a swarm in southern Lango. A marked reduction of the hopper infestation in Mengo and the Eastern Province was effected by the action of local inhabitants. This report appears to indicate that the danger of the Red locust entering Kenya from the Eastern Province of Uganda is lessened.

Submission of specimens—Swarms of the African Migratory locust now in Kenya are maturing and it is even more important that specimens should accompany reports, especially when any yellowing is noticed in the swarm Up to now the majority of specimens received by the Entomologist have arrived in a decomposed condition because they have been packed in small containers, with too many locusts in the container, frequently without any access for air and with green vegetable material packed with them The effect of this has been to increase the moisture in the container and to decompose the locusts It is requested that locusts should be sent in large, any containers with no green material in them and that if a large number of locusts is sent the container should be proportionately large It is desirable to send as many locusts as possible in order to ensure that several members of both sexes are sent, but the insurance of arrival in good condition is equally important
