THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 45 OF 1965

Parties:

The Kenya Distributive and Commercial Workers' Union
and

The Twentieth Century Fox Organization (E.A.)

Issues in dispute:

- (i) Wage Increases.
- (ii) House Allowance.
- (iii) Increased Leave.
- (iv) Retirement Benefits.
- (v) Working Hours for Catering Staff
- (vi) Paid Maternity Leave.

1. The parties were heard in Nairobi on the 21st and 22nd December 1965. The parties relied on their written and verbal submissions but the Twentieth Century Fox Organization (E.A.) called two witnesses in support of their case.

GENERAL BACKGROUND

2. The Kenya Distributive and Commercial Workers' Union is now a part of the Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers and shall hereinafter be called the Claimants. The Twentieth Century Fox Organization (E.A.) shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents. The Respondents have recognized the Claimants in their new garb. The Respondents consists of nine separate companies, six of which are operating, two non-operating and one dormant. They employ a total of 175 employees. The Claimants were recognized by the Respondents in 1962 and the first agreement between the parties on terms and conditions of service was signed on 28th June 1962. This was followed by an agreement having effect from 1st July 1963, which was to remain indefinite until terminated by a month's notice by either party with a proviso that no such notice should be before 1st April 1964. The Claimants forwarded their demands to the Respondents on 26th April 1965, which included amendments to the agreement then in force. Negotiations commenced on 17th May 1965, followed by subsequent meetings with long breaks in between. Eventually deadlock having been reached on the six issues in dispute the matter was referred to the Industrial Court under the Trade Dispute Act, 1965.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE CLAIMANTS

3. (i) Wage Increases.—The Claimants made it clear that the present wage was inclusive of house allowance as the Respondents had not agreed in previous negotiations to have house allowance negotiated as a separate benefit. They submitted that although a job classification had been carried out minimum rates for these various jobs had not been agreed and a system of percentage increases had been adopted previously and the Respondents wanted the same system to be followed even now. They drew the Court's attention to the fact that no annual increments were being granted to the employees at present. The cost of living had gone up since the last agreement and the Respondents' employees, especially in the lower grades, were grossly underpaid considering the fact that there was no separate house allowance. They maintained that the Respondents were in a position to meet their demands. The Claimants expressed very strong views on the fact that the Respondents were aligning themselves, as far as the catering department was concerned, with the Hotel and Catering Trades Wages Council Order which was primarily designed to fix wages for small employers. They wanted the Respondents to compare their terms and conditions of employment with the leading hotels in the city of Nairobi. The Claimants drew the Court's attention to various other industries which were paying higher rates than the Respondents. The Claimants, therefore, submitted that although, originally, their demands ranged for the lowest paid employee to Sh. 300, and the highest paid employee to Sh. 2,000, they had come down during negotiations and had demanded the following increases:—

For those earning up to Sh. 200 per month—35 per cent.

For those earning up to between Sh. 201 and Sh. 400 per month—25 per cent.

For those earning from Sh. 401 upwards per month—15 per cent.

Their demands, the Claimants submitted, were very reasonable. The Claimants submitted that the Respondents' offer of 4 per cent increase to all employees was extremely low. They requested the Court to make an award in line with their demands. The Claimants intimated to the Court that, in the very near future, they would get in touch with the Respondents and finalize the job classification by fixing the rates for the various jobs.

(ii) House Allowance.—The Claimants demanded house allowance for every employee and to be based on 50 per cent of his monthly salary as they alleged that after an employee had paid his rent from his wage he was left with very little money on which to feed himself, his wife and children. They submitted that as the wage level was so low the Respondents should subsidize the employees' housing. They maintained that they had constantly tried for house allowance to be paid in addition to wages but with no success. They felt that the time had now come when employees should be paid a house allowance.

(iii) Increased Leave.—The Claimants stated that although their demand was considerable they had decided to accept the Respondents' offer made during the hearing of the dispute in a spirit of compromise, the Respondents' offer being 24 consecutive days' leave per year with a proviso that if a Gazetted Holiday fell within this period then an additional day would be added to the leave entitlement. They also accepted that employees would be allowed to accumulate seven days of their leave entitlement for two years only.

(iv) Retirement Benefits.—The Claimants demanded some benefit for their members in respect of services rendered up to the time the National Social Security Act started functioning. They pointed out that although the Respondents had agreed to explore a Provident Fund Scheme they had dropped it when the Government had announced the National Social Security Scheme. The Claimants wanted payment by way of gratuity based on the formula for severance pay in respect of years of service of an employee up to the implementation of the National Scheme.

(v) Working Hours for Catering Staff.—The Claimants made it clear that they had no complaint under this issue but that the Respondents wanted the working hours for the catering staff to be increased from 45 hours per week to 50 hours per week. They stated that there was no merit in this demand as the 45 hours per week had been agreed between the parties.

(vi) Paid Maternity Leave.—The Claimants submitted that most of the employers in the country were now allowing paid maternity leave to their female employees. They requested the Court to bring the Respondents into line with the general practice on this issue in the country. They further wanted this benefit to be extended to all female employees and not restricted to married females only.

MAIN SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

4. (i) Wage Increases.—The Respondents submitted that the profitability of their Group had dropped very considerably since 1963 mainly due to decreased attendances at theatres, increased costs and low turnovers. This was an result of an exodus of Europeans, including the army, leaving the country and very severe competition from television. They pointed out that the Claimants had conceded in the Industrial Court in Cause No. 22 of 1965 that cinema workers in Nairobi doing similar duties were being paid considerably higher wages and that this could be established from their agreement with the Respondents. They drew the Court's attention to the fact that they had granted an increase of 38 per cent to their employees between the period 1962 to 1964. The demand by the Claimants far exceeded any previously made. They pointed out that the Claimants were fully aware of the fact that in May 1965, they had declared six employees redundant mainly at the Drive-In Cinema. This was done after discussion with the Claimants. They stated that the majority of their employees did not work during the day and quite a number of them worked elsewhere by employing themselves or in paid employment. In spite of this they had always wanted to progress and to raise the lowest paid and to give an increase to all without creating further redundancies. They produced evidence as to their financial position through Mr. Heckett. In considering all the above circumstances they maintained that their offer of 7½ per cent for the bottom rates tapering to 3 per cent at top or a 4 per cent increase to all employees was very reasonable and requested the Court to endorse it. They also pointed out that arrangements existed between the parties for the payment of long service increments although only a few were in receipt of these increments. But quite a number of employees would be entitled to them next year.

(ii) House Allowance.—The Respondents strongly urged that as all their negotiations were on a clean wage basis they should be allowed to continue with it as any departure from it would be a retrograde step. They called Mr. W. L. Harragin, the Chairman of their Group, to prove that although the Claimants had demanded house allowance separately on two previous occasions, negotiations were finalized on a clear wage basis and the housing element was taken into consideration when the wage was fixed.

(iii) Increased Leave.—The Respondents stated that they were prepared to allow additional days off for the Gazetted Public Holidays falling during the 24 days' consecutive leave period. They also offered seven days of such leave to be accumulated for two years.

(iv) Retirement Benefits.—The Respondents during the 1963 negotiations had agreed with the Claimants to introduce a Provident Fund Scheme for their employees. However, the Government had announced its intention to introduce a Social Security Scheme to embrace most of the employed people following the Turner Report. In view of this the Respondents had not pursued this any further. The Respondents stated that even if they had produced a scheme it could only have started on the effective date embodied in the regulations and by-laws approved by the Authorities. In any case it was never made clear to them whether the Claimants wanted a Gratuity or a Provident Fund under this issue. They stated that both original demands and the present version had no foundation and should be rejected by the Court.

(v) Working Hours for Catering Staff.—The Respondents pointed out that after the 1963 agreement the Hotel and Catering Trades Wages Council Order was issued by the Minister for Labour and Social Services. This Order, by its definition and coverage, covered the Respondents' catering department and they were obliged to comply with this Order which stipulated, among other things a 54-hour week and considerably high wages. They stated that the employees got the benefit of these high wages without having to work 54 hours a week. This they maintained was very unfair and as their employees never did any more than 50 hours a week once or twice a month they requested the Court to award a 50-hour week for catering staff.

(vi) Paid Maternity Leave.—The Respondent had agreed to grant their female employees six weeks' leave prior to, and six weeks subsequent to, delivery, to married female employees. The Claimants demand, as it stood, required the Respondents to undertake services which were rightly and appropriately those of the Government of the Republic. The I.L.O. at this year's Conference re-confirmed its recommendation that employers were not responsible for payment during confinement. Finally, the Respondents stated that the effective date of the Court's award should be 1st September 1965, which was the first day after the expiry of the 14 month wage standstill under the Tripartite Agreement.

AWARD

5. After a careful consideration of the submissions of the parties, the Court awards as follows:—

(i) Wage Increases

(a) All those employees getting a wage of Sh. 200 per month and less shall get an increase of 20 per cent;

Provided that the new wage of these employees shall not be more than Sh 225 per month;

(b) All those employees getting a wage between Sh. 201 per month and Sh. 350 per month shall get an increase of 10 per cent;

(c) All other employees shall get an increase of 5 per cent.

(ii) House Allowance.—Nil award.

(iii) Increased Leave.—In accordance with the parties' expressed desire the Court awards an annual leave of 24 consecutive days:

Provided that if a public holiday falls within the leave period the employee shall get an extra day for such public holiday.

Employees may accumulate 7 seven days of their annual leave for two years only.

(iv) Retirement Benefits.—During the hearing the Claimants made it clear that their demand was for Gratuity for the years of service up to the implementation of the National Social Security Act. Provided that the total maternity leave does not exceed twelve weeks.

Given in Nairobi this 11th day of January 1966.
