THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO 3 OF 1972

Parties —

Printing and Kindred Trades Workers' Union of Kenya and

Federation of Master Printers of East Africa

Issues in dispute —

- 1 Housing or housing allowance
- 2 Expiry date for terminal benefits
- 3 Rates of pay for female employees

1 The Printing and Kindred Trades Workers' Union of Kenya shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and the Federation of Master Printers of East Africa shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents

2 The parties were heard in Nairobi on the 14th day of March, 1972, and relied on their written and verbal submissions

AWARD

3 The parties entered into a recognition agreement on 15th August, 1962, and have since then periodically entered into collective agreements relating to terms and conditions of employment of the employees of the Respondents' member companies. The Court was told that these agreements were negotiated at two year intervals. Their latest agreement which has been concluded on all items except the three issues, the subject matter of this dispute before the Court, is effective from 1st January, 1972, for a period of two years

The Claimants had forwarded their demands to the Respondents in September, 1971. Negotiations, however, did not commence till November, 1971, and eventually with the aid of a conciliator from the Ministry of Labour agreement was reached on 25th January 1972, on all items except the three in dispute. Clause 10 of this consolidated agreement reads as follows —

'The parties have also agreed to refer the following issues to the Industrial Court for adjudication —

- (a) housing and housing allowance,
- (b) expiry date for terminal benefits, and
- (c) rates of pay for female employees "

The parties signed the Notification of Dispute Form 'A' on 25th January, 1972, which was forwarded to the Industrial Court by the Labour Commissioner on 4th February, 1972, along with his certificate as required under the Trade Disputes Act (Cap 234)

Housing or housing allowance

The Claimants demand that the Court should award 25 per cent of the present salaries and wages of their members as house allowance where the employer does not provide a house. This house allowance should cover workers earning Sh 330 per month up to a maximum of Sh 1,700 per month

The Claimants' arguments in brief are that the Respondents are practising discrimination between their European and non-European employees as far as housing was concerned in that the former were either provided with rent free houses or were given a substantial house allowance. They alleged that some prominent members of the Respondents' group had sold their properties when they were vacated by European employees rather than give them to African and Asian employees. This discrimination was contrary to ILO Conventions and the Kenya Constitution. They asked the Court to rectify this situation and remove this discrimination by awarding their members the house allowance as demanded by them

As far as the question of a consolidated wage having been paid in this industry since last 13 years was concerned, they stated that they did not accept this. In any case, they argued, that at the expiry of a collective agreement they were entitled to raise issues which they might have dropped previously in a spirit of 'give and take'. They strenuously submitted that they were not bound or committed to a certain pattern or tradition for all time to come. It was an accepted principle of industrial relations that things cannot remain static as they must change. They pointed out that housing was a very serious and explosive issue in this industry and if the Respondents could spend such a large amount every year on housing on paying house allowance to their European employees there was no reason why they should not spend an equal amount on the housing of non-European employees

The Respondents on the other hand vigorously submitted that right from 1958 when they were asked to negotiate with the Claimants' predecessors, it had been clearly understood between the parties that the wage structure included an element for housing. They referred the Court to the relevant minutes of the meetings held on 31st July, 1958, and again on 8th October, 1963. They maintained that the Claimants had committed themselves to a consolidated salary. They also referred the Court to their other previous collective agreements where it was specifically stated that the wages of labourers were inclusive of house allowance. The 1968 agreement had confirmed once again the continuation of the practice of a consolidated wage without any addition for housing or house allowance. Finally they drew the Court's attention to their new minimum wage of Sh 330 per month for an unskilled labourer which compared very favourably indeed with other industries and submitted there was absolutely no justification for adding another burden of a house allowance when the Claimants had quite clearly accepted the fact that housing had been consolidated for so many years. They asked the Court to reject the Claimants' demand

The Court has very carefully gone through the previous collective agreements between the parties and finds that over all these years in the past no house allowance has been paid to the workers. In the 1961 agreement the following is recorded under the heading 'Unskilled Labourers' —

Unskilled labourers such as sweepers, packers, machine boys, stereo metal labourers, etc., to be paid a minimum of Sh 124 per month plus a monthly house allowance of Sh 26 per month making a total of Sh 150 "

At a Joint Industrial Council meeting held on 8th October, 1963, the following is recorded under the item of "Housing Allowance" —

'Mr Mukuna said that the union was prepared to withdraw its request for house allowance in the light of the Pratt Report and the views of the Federation but that they wished for a leave travel allowance "

At one stage, although in respect of unskilled workers only, the house allowance is clearly specified which later on was consolidated in the monthly wage. Over all these years since then the Claimants concluded their successive collective bargaining agreements without a house allowance. Even if they did not specifically agree to the consolidation of house allowance in the monthly wage it may well be that after demanding a house allowance the Claimants invariably dropped it in the spirit of 'give and take'. For whatever reasons, the fact remains that no house allowance was paid

There is no doubt that during the present negotiations the Respondents' approach was that their offer of wage increases was conditional on there being no demand for house allowance or leave allowance. The Claimants on the other hand were adamant that their wage demands did not include house allowance or leave travel allowances which items they were pursuing separately. All this is clearly recorded in their minutes of the meeting held on 23rd November, 1971

During conciliation the parties settled the wage issue but there is no reference in that of any housing element although the Respondents made it clear that as far as they are concerned they do not expect to have to face any additional burden by way of housing or housing allowance

The Court has very carefully considered the submissions on this issue and has come to the conclusion that if the Claimants are determined to have housing allowance as a separate item then it would be unfair not to give them an opportunity to do so, especially after about 14 years during which time there have been radical changes and the rents have also gone up considerably. The Court, however, feels that in the present dispute the wage issue having been settled by the parties out of Court, and in the absence of any evidence on the element for housing in the negotiated wage it would be not only unfair but also dangerous to go ahead and make an award on housing allowance. The Court cannot proceed to make an award on such an important item as housing allowance in isolation of the wage agreement. Items like house allowance and other fringe benefits represent both a very important part of income to many workers and a substantial cost to employers and wage assessments must therefore take them fully into account. As has been pointed out, in this dispute the parties have already concluded a wage agreement as follows —

The wage increases will be effected as follows—

Group A—Sh 1 to Sh 400 per month an increase of Sh 40 those earning Sh 401 to Sh 800 an increase of Sh 25 and those earning Sh 801 to Sh 1,700 an increase of Sh 20 and that there shall be a general and automatic increase of Sh 20 for all grades in 1973, effective with effect from 1st January, 1973 "

This has put the Court in a very difficult position and the best that the Court can do under the circumstances is at this stage to rule that the Claimants have won the right to a separate housing allowance which should however be negotiated when the present agreement which has come into force with effect from 1st January, 1972, is to be revised. The parties will then be in a position to take a realistic look at this issue along with the wage issue

Prior to the expiry of the previous collective agreement the Respondents agreed to negotiate and concluded an agreement with the Claimants on this issue as follows —

"(a) An employee on completion of two years continuous service with an employer shall be entitled to a minimum of one week's pay for every completed year of service by way of gratuity to be based on the employee's wages at the time of the termination of service

- (b) An employee who resigns shall be entitled to gratuity. An employee who is dismissed on proven gross misconduct will not be entitled to gratuity.
- (c) The effective date for working out benefits under this scheme shall be the 1st January, 1955, i.e. an employee shall not be entitled to any gratuity for service prior to 1st January, 1955. Resignation will qualify an employee for gratuity.
- (d) At the moment the benefits under the scheme will only be paid up to September, 1966, when the National Social Security Fund was introduced, pending the forthcoming negotiations between the parties at the expiry of the Tripartite Agreement.
- (e) The payment of gratuity shall also be subject to the proviso in paragraph 4 of clause 12 in the current negotiated agreement between the parties provided that those who did not resign and did not receive any Provident Fund payments will not be affected by this clause.
- (f) An employer who has been operating his own non-contributory Provident Fund scheme for the benefit of his employees prior to and subsequent to the implementation of the National Social Security Fund shall be exempt from the provisions of this scheme. Provided that, if any payment from the non-contributory Provident Fund Scheme is less than the amount of gratuity due under this scheme, no lesser total than the agreed gratuity shall be paid."

As is evident from above, the dispute covers the expiry date of the terminal benefits. The Claimants' demand is that a worker should be entitled to this benefit from 1st January, 1955, up to the date he leaves the service on the aforesaid conditions as they could not see any valid reason why the commencement of the National Social Security Fund should affect this issue. They referred the Court to para (f) above and pointed out that the two largest employers in the Respondents' group operated a non-contributory Provident Fund scheme.

The Respondents submitted that although they were under no obligation to do so, they had shown their good faith in negotiating an agreement with the Claimants during the life of their previous collective agreement and that they had based the provisions of this agreement on the numerous Industrial Court awards on this issue in other disputes. They maintained that their approach had been dictated by their desire to be in line and consistent with the Industrial Court rulings.

The Court has carefully considered this submission and has come to the conclusion that no special reasons have been made out for extending the expiry date of terminal benefits beyond 1966. The Court finds that the concessions which the Claimants have already secured from the Respondents are fair and reasonable. The Claimants' demand is accordingly rejected.

Rates of pay for female employees

The female employees are paid 80 per cent of the male rate and the relevant clause in the previous collective agreement reads as follows —

"Adult female employees in the printing industry shall be covered by all the clauses of agreement above with the exception of the rate of pay.

The rate of pay for adult female employees in the printing trades shall be 80 per cent of the rate of pay agreed with the Union for adult male employees doing the same work in the printing trades, inclusive of housing allowance."

The Claimants bitterly attacked that clause and termed it as clear discrimination against female employees contrary to all international practice and ILO conventions.

The Respondents pointed out that the ratio of 80 per cent had been in existence for very many years but it only applied to the unskilled workers. They maintained that the general productivity of females is lower than that of males performing the same work mainly through the problems of absenteeism.

The Court has carefully considered the Respondents' offer of eliminating this differential by 1978 at the rate of 5 per cent every two years commencing immediately but is not able to accept this arrangement. The Court sees no valid reason why the female employees doing the same work as males should not be entitled to the same remuneration. The Court must uphold the principle of equal remuneration for work of equal value as between men and women workers. The Court therefore awards that the female employees should get the same remuneration as male employees with effect from 1st January, 1972.

GAZETTE NOTICE NO 1252

THE TRADE MARKS ACT

(Cap 506)

NOTICE is hereby given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within 60 days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on Form T M No 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Sh 50

Notice is also hereby given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the Registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expenses of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Office, Nairobi

Applications for registration in Part A of the Register are shown with the official number unaccompanied by any letter. Applications for Part B are distinguished by the letter B prefixed to the official number
