Claimants:—

A. Odhiambo.
M. Ngatia.
G. S. Ochieng.

Respondents:—

J. J. Mughalla.
B. Onyango.
S. Nzuki.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 19th May, 1977, duly signed by the parties was received by the Court on 30th September, 1977, along with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner.

The history of this dispute dates back to August, 1971, when the Claimants approached Acif Ltd. for recognition. This company was established in 1968 and owned two factories, one in Thika, manufacturing gunny bags and sisal twine, and a small factory in industrial area manufacturing edible oils.

Acif Ltd. replied to the Claimants pointing out that they had recognized the Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union as the sole body representing its employees at both its Thika and Nairobi factories.

The Claimants reported the existence of a dispute to the Minister for Labour on 20th September, 1971, and Acif Ltd. maintained that although they manufactured edible oils and allied products their main undertaking was the manufacture of sisal and jute products, therefore Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union was the proper union for their industry. A Conciliator was appointed and the dispute dragged on from November, 1971 to July 1972, but the conciliation failed as the Respondents had already recognized the Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union.

The next development in the dispute is the establishment of the Respondents and it is not disputed that the Respondents, a new company, have the same shareholders as Acif Ltd.—in fact Acif Ltd. is the mother company; this necessitated in the Claimants having to report a fresh trade dispute to the Minister for Labour on 27th May, 1974. This resulted in a committee of investigation being appointed under the chairmanship of Mr. J. J. M. Mwashimba, the then Senior Labour Officer with Messrs. C. Adongo and D. Richmond (alternate T. Owuor). This committee went into the dispute and on 5th July, 1976, the Chief Industrial Relations Officer forwarded its observations and conclusion to the parties in the following terms:—

"Acif Ltd. has two factories, one at Thika which manufactures textiles and another at the Nairobi Industrial Area which manufactures vegetable oils.

The Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union has a recognition agreement with Acif Ltd. and consider the Nairobi Industrial Area factory as only a section of whole business. However, it is noteworthy to mention that their constitution does not cover the activities of the employees at the Nairobi, i.e. production of vegetable oil.

There was a view advanced at the deliberations of the meeting that representation by the Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union could be retained on the ground that the vegetable oil cannot be supported due to the fact that the Union's constitution does not include such industry. Other edible production firms are not covered by the Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union.

Conclusion

It therefore follows that the Kenya Chemical Workers' Union is the appropriate union to represent the workers employed by Acif Ltd. in their Nairobi Industrial Area establishment."

On 24th July, 1976, the Claimants forwarded a recognition agreement to the Respondents in the hope that the matter was now finally resolved but the Respondents did not recognize them with the result that on 26th October, 1976, the Claimants had yet once again to report the existence of a trade dispute to the Minister for Labour on the following items:—

The Respondents' refusal to sign recognition agreement with them.

Their failure to negotiate with the Claimants on terms and conditions of employment of their employees who are members of the Claimants.

This resulted in further conciliation proceedings. The Respondents' stand during conciliation was that they are a food processing and food manufacturing industry and as such they cannot recognize the Claimants. They further maintained that even if the workers had been persuaded to join the Claimants this did not mean that they had to recognize the Claimants as well. They also made a point that as the Ministry had instructed them to part from the Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union now was the time for them to join the right union which they maintained were not the Claimants.

On 26th February, 1977, the Chief Industrial Relations Officer advised the parties that the matter should be referred to the Industrial Court for final adjudication.

A very interesting new development, however, took place in early February, 1977. It is alleged by the Respondents that on 1st February, 1977, their employees joined the Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers (hereinafter referred to as the Commercial Union).

On this particular point there is a conflict between the parties with the Claimants alleging that the Respondents persuaded their employees by misleading them on the recommendation of the Ministry of Labour to join the Commercial Union while the Respondents maintained that their employees themselves decided that they wanted to join that particular union as opposed to the Claimants.

The Court will go into this aspect hereinafter in the award but this development resulted in the workers signing the notice in respect of check-off deductions addressed to the Respondents by the Secretary-General of the Commercial Union in respect of union dues. This notice is dated 2nd February, 1977, although on top of the notice there is another date written as 3rd February, 1977, which the Respondents' witnesses stated was the date the Respondents received this notice.

Then there is a further development in that on 1st March, 1977, almost all the Respondents' employees wrote individual letters to the Respondents' managing director in the following terms:—

"You will recall that you deducted the amount of Sh. 10 on 28th February, 1977, from my February, 1977, salary saying that you have already paid such amount to Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers on my behalf while in fact I did not ask you to pay such amount for me at any time, neither have I joined the said union except the form you presented to me stating that the Federation of Kenya Employers have agreed with the Government that we should join the Kenya Union of Commercial Union by signing such forms. Please note that by this letter I am cancelling and withdrawing any document on union membership with Kenya Union of Commercial Food and Allied Workers or any other authority which might have been signed in their favour.

Having noted the recommendation of Investigation Committee appointed by the Minister for Labour which you did reveal to me, I have rejoined the Kenya Chemical Workers' Union as from 1st March, 1977, as the dispute between the Kenya Chemical Workers' Union and Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union on the question of membership has been resolved by the report."

There is no serious doubt that all these letters were drafted and typed in the Claimants' offices.

Notwithstanding the aforesaid letters which clearly indicated to the Respondents that almost all of their employees had left the Commercial Union they went ahead and signed a recognition agreement with that union on 18th March, 1977.

This dispute which originally had started between a trade union and an employer on the matter of recognition in due course developed into a dispute between one trade union, i.e.

the Claimants and another trade union, i.e. the Commercial Union. The Court has no doubt that this is so because of the active role played by the Respondents in this matter because although fully in the picture and having had a ruling from the Ministry of Labour that they should recognize the Claimants in preference to the Tailors and Textiles Workers' Union they decided that the proper union for them to recognize was the Commercial Union.

After having examined the evidence of the various witnesses the Court has come to the conclusion that the Respondents played an active role in persuading their employees to join the Commercial Union because the Commercial Union in fact had taken no steps at all in trying to win recognition from the Respondents all these years and it is only in February, 1977, that they came on the scene. This no doubt they did on being approached by the Respondents. The Court is not prepared to believe that the Respondents' employees felt the Commercial Union to be their proper union and therefore decided to enrol as members. There is overwhelming evidence that the Respondents were most reluctant to recognize the Claimants and this only strengthens the Court's finding because they opted for the Commercial Union and went ahead to sign a recognition agreement with them after being fully aware that all their employees had resigned from that union and had joined the Claimants.

The Court having found that the Respondents' role in this whole affair was rather suspect must, however, proceed to decide if the Claimants are entitled to win recognition from the Respondents due to the other arguments and factors involved in this dispute. Whatever the reason the Commercial Union is also now directly involved in this dispute.

In order to determine this question the Court must examine the constitutions of the Claimants and the Commercial Union. The relevant clause in the constitution of the Commercial Union reads as follows:—

- "(i) Distributive and commercial group—engaged in warehouse, and merchandize, flour, coffee and spice mills, food processing, banks, insurance, offices, cinemas, show-grounds, shop-workers, wholesale and retails, watchmen organizations, distributive daily workers, co-operative societies and statutory boards.
- (ii) Laundry cleaners and dyers group—which shall embrace all employees engaged in dyers, dry cleaners and laundry industries.
- (iii) Tobacco trade group—which shall embrace all employees engaged in tobacco industries.
- (iv) Bottling and brewing group—which shall embrace all employees in bottling and brewing industries."

The Claimants' constitution under rule 2 (a) states:—

"Manufacture of vegetable, animal oils and fats, etc.:

The production of crude oil, cake and meal by crushing or extraction from oilseeds, or nuts, the extraction of fish and other marine animal oils, the rendering of inedible animal oils and fats, the refining and hydro-generation (or hardening) of such oil and of olive oil, marine animal oils, the rendering and refining of animal oils and fats. The production of margarine compound cooking fats and table or salad oils, the manufacture of miscellaneous food preparations."

A superficial glance at the two relevant clauses as set out above shows that the constitutions of the Commercial Union and the Claimants allow them to enrol as members the Respondents' employees as the Respondents are engaged in the manufacture of edible oils and allied products. It is obvious, however, that the Claimants' constitution on this particular point is much more detailed and specific than the Commercial Union's which contains the very wide words "food processing".

J. J. Mughalla, the Deputy Secretary-General of the Commercial Union, while giving evidence went into the history of the establishment of the Claimants and stated that at one time the Claimants were part of the Commercial Union who decided that the Claimants' Secretary-General should be given a small union of his own and this had now resulted in a situation where the Claimants wanted to take a large slice of the industries for which the Commercial Union caters. There is a certain amount of overlapping in this regard between the Claimants and the Commercial Union as some industries engaged in what may very broadly be termed as food processing activities have recognized the Commercial Union while others engaged in similar activities recognize the Claimants. This sort of situation is inevitable because of the historical development of these two unions.

The Court has now to make a decision in this dispute on the facts as set out above. After careful consideration of all the submissions and purely on the merits of this particular dispute, and the Court would like to stress the words "on the merits of this particular dispute", the Court has decided to make an award in favour of the Claimants. The Court has been very much influenced in coming to its conclusion by the fact that the Claimants had as far back as 1971 started their quest for obtaining recognition from the Respondents when they were still a part of Acif Ltd. and that the Commercial Union came on the scene in February, 1977, and that also, as already found by the Court, at the instigation of the Respondents, Furthermore, the Court feels that under the circumstances pertaining to this dispute an employer should not dictate to his employees as to the union to which they should belong but this decision should be left to the workers themselves. The Court is satisfied that the workers exercised their rights by opting for the Claimants and the Court having been satisfied in all other regards awards that the Respondents should recognize the Claimants and directs that a formal recognition agreement should be signed by the Claimants and the Respondents within two weeks of the date of the Court award after which the parties can embark on negotiations for terms and conditions of employment covering the Respondents' employees.

Given in Nairobi this 6th day of January, 1978.
