The Government intends to streamline and expand the Corporation, since a substantial part of its income from repairs and rents on docked vehicles is in foreign exchange. THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO 40 OF 1978

Parties—

Kenya Management Staff Association and

New Mombasa Pearl Laundry and Dry Cleaners Ltd

Issue in dispute —

Wrongful termination of Charles Opiyo

1 The Kenya Management Staff Association shall hereinafter be referred to as the Claimants and New Mombasa Pearl Laundry and Dry Cleaners Ltd shall hereinafter be referred to as the Respondents

2 The parties were heard in Nairobi on the 14th day of September, 1978, and in addition to relying on their written and verbal submissions called the following witnesses to give evidence on oath —

Claimants — Charles Opiyo

Respondents — Richard P Owino

AWARD

3 The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 24th April, 1976, duly signed by the parties was received by the Court on 2nd August, 1978, along with the statutory certificates signed by the Labour Commissioner and the Minister for Labour

Charles Opiyo started working in March, 1952, at the Mombasa branch of the Pearl Dry Cleaners and continued in service despite the ownership and the name of the firm having changed twice. The first change took place when the Mombasa Pearl Laundry 1968 Ltd was formed and the next change was in November, 1970, when the same company was changed to the New Mombasa Pearl Laundry and Dry Cleaners Ltd

Charles Opiyo continued working with these firms successively and when in January, 1976, the company was sold to Ripo Ltd, he was still in employment and continued to work for them. By this time he had become a departmental head

It is not disputed by R P Owino, the Managing Director of the company, that the services of all the employees he found working when he purchased the business had continued without a break

On 28th January, 1976, Owino, wrote a letter to Opiyo in which it was pointed out that Opiyo had used his position to influence the Respondents' customers to take their business to Paka Laundry and that this sort of behaviour was contrary to a normal employer/employee relationship and he was accordingly given up to 31st January, 1976 to renounce all his business connexion including employment, commission agency, shareholding, etc, with Paka Laundry or any other similar organizations in which he may have interests. It was also stated in this letter that unless Opiyo gave a written confirmation that he has severed all his relationship as stated above then the Respondents would consider that he had voluntarily terminated his services with effect from 1st February, 1976

On 31st January, 1976, Opiyo replied and denied that he was acting against the interests of the Respondents or that he had acted in breach of conditions of his contract of employment with the Respondents and added that he still considered himself their employee

On 4th February, 1976, Owino wrote to Opiyo pointing out that he had not agreed to renounce his business connexions with the other laundry and had written his reply couched in unnecessarily rude language and he further wrote —

"We therefore assume that you have resigned from the employ of this company and in any case by your omission to accept our terms, the company considers that you were summarily dismissed for engaging in activities detrimental to its operation and in particular you have been canvassing the company's customers to divert their laundry to others where you have interests"

The dispute on the issue of termination of services of Charles Opiyo was investigated by the Ministry of Labour and the Ministry's findings and recommendation as set below were forwarded to the parties on 23rd November, 1976, to form the basis of a settlement of the dispute

Findings

From the submissions it is evident that Opiyo was a shareholder in Paka Dry Cleaners. It would be right for New Mombasa Pearl Dry Cleaners, the employer of Opiyo, to doubt his loyalty to them while he was a shareholder in Paka Dry Cleaners who by nature of their business were direct competitors to Opiyo's employer

I find the Management acted reasonably by asking Opiyo to renounce all his shares of loyalty to Paka Dry Cleaners if he wished to continue in their employment. However, I find the management erred by summarily dismissing Opiyo, over what I may call personal interests and not gross misconduct. Opiyo should have merely had his services terminated

Recommendation

In view of the foregoing observations the dismissal of Opiyo is considered to have been wrongful. The dismissal should be reduced to normal termination and he be paid as follows paid as follows—

- 1 payment in lieu of notice, as may be in his letter of appointment, if period not specified one month's salary,
- 2 pay for any days worked,
- 3 pay for any leave due,
- 4 and any other dues arising out of terms and conditions of his service"

The Claimants submitted that the Respondents had at no time terminated the services of Opiyo and that the new owner for reasons best known to himself had decided to get rid of their member and had decided to use this excuse against him

Opiyo while giving evidence stated that one of the previous directors, E J MacDonald, had encouraged him and another employee to open a laundry which according to Opiyo was an extension of MacDonald's business. He went further to say that MacDonald had helped them to acquire the premises and the business and that the new managing director, Owino, knew of this new business which was being run under the name of Paka Laundry. He further informed the Court that he had 600 shares in the Respondents' firm and that he owned Paka Laundry with three other partners which they had started in 1974,

The Claimants have asked the Court to award a sum of Sh 16,350 to Opiyo as he has been wrongfully dismissed as follows —

| | Sh |
|------------------------------|---------------|
| "One month in lieu of notice | 1,050 |
| His January, 1976, salary | 1,050 |
| 21 days' leave | 1,050 |
| Severance pay for 24 years | 12,600 |
| His shares worth | 600 |
| | <hr/> 16,350" |

The Claimants did not ask for Opiyo's reinstatement

The Respondents stated that as a result of investigations carried out by Mrs MacDonald who had continued to work as a manageress for them when Owino's group took over the laundry it was found that Opiyo was a partner in Paka Laundry who were in direct competition with the Respondents. The investigation further revealed that Opiyo was found actually working with Paka Laundry while still in the employment of the Respondents.

The Respondents further submitted that one of their customers, Tamarind Restaurant, had started giving part of its laundry work to Paka Laundry through the influence of Opiyo.

The managing director, Owino, gave evidence for the Respondents and stated that he had taken appropriate steps to protect the interests of his company and Opiyo had accordingly been given three days in order to renounce his association with Paka Laundry but he failed to do so. He maintained that three days were enough for him to regularize his affairs in order to continue in the Respondents' employment and if he had been given any more time then their business would have been damaged by him.

Owino stated that he did not want to stand in the way of Opiyo opening up a new business and running it so long as he knew the rules of the game. He added that if he had been asked by Opiyo to be given further time to sever his connexion with Paka Laundry then he would have given him the necessary facility.

At the outset the Court would like to dispose of the Claimants' claim of Sh 12,600 on behalf of their member which they have claimed as severance pay for 24 years' service. The Court fails to understand on what grounds they have formulated this claim. No collective agreement between the parties was produced nor were any relevant legal provisions in the labour legislation quoted in respect of this claim.

The Court finds that Opiyo is not entitled to this claim for severance pay for 24 years amounting to Sh 12,600 because he was not declared redundant by the Respondents. He has lost his services for entirely different reasons and this claim accordingly must fail. In any case Owino's group undertook to honour all the agreements relating to their employees since 1968 but the Claimants have failed to produce any such agreements to support their claim in this respect.

The Court must emphasize that an employee owes his employer a duty of faithful services and that lack of fidelity or betrayal of his employer's trade secrets can lead to a loss of employment.

The Court while appreciating the reasons why the Respondents terminated the services of Opiyo feels that three days was certainly not a sufficient time to enable him to take the necessary steps to save his job with the Respondents and in any case this sort of situation did not warrant a summary dismissal. The Court agrees with the Ministry of Labour's findings that the termination should have been a normal termination. There appears to be no contract of employment and the Court has therefore to decide what notice should have been given to him. Since Opiyo's services had been taken over by the Respondents with effect from 1968, the Court rules that he should have been given either two months' notice or pay in lieu thereof in order to terminate his services.

The Court cannot accept that the Respondents did not have a valid reason to terminate the services of Opiyo. The Court finds that they did have a justifiable reason and took appropriate steps on 28th January, 1976, to set this matter straight but Opiyo having failed to give a clear undertaking that he would renounce his relationship with his employer's competitor deserved a normal termination and not a summary dismissal.

After careful consideration of all the submissions the Court awards that in addition to Opiyo's January, 1976, pay and 21 days leave that was due to him and his shares worth Sh 600 and all other dues incidental to those shares he should be paid a further two months' salary amounting to Sh 2,100. The Court directs the Respondents to pay Opiyo his dues as set out above without any further delay.

GAZETTE NOTICE NO 2951

THE TRADE MARKS ACT
(Cap 506)

NOTICE is hereby given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herem according to the classes may, within 60 days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on Form TM No 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of Sh 50

Notice is also hereby given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the Registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make, if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the Registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the Registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.

Representations of the marks advertised herem can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Office, Nairobi.

Applications for registration in Part A of the Register are shown with the official number unaccompanied by any letter. Applications for Part B are distinguished by the letter B prefixed to the official number.
