GAZETTE NOTICE No. 2687

VACANCY OFFERED BY COMMONWEALTH SECRETARIAT

APPLICATIONS and a detailed curriculum vitae from Kenya nationals only should be addressed to the Permanent Secretary/Director, Directorate of Personnel Management, P.O. Box 30050, Nairobi, so as to reach him not later than 27th July, 1984.

Position.—CHIEF PROJECT OFFICER (evaluation).

Programme/Division.—Office of the managing director, C.F.T.C.

Classification.—D4/M1.

General.—This is a new post, approved by C.F.T.C.'s board of representatives on 1st June, 1984.

C.F.T.C.'s procedures for the evaluation of its projects have been developing since 1978 when the BOR agreed that some form of evaluation should be undertaken on a regular basis. C.F.T.C.'s existing evaluation practices vary widely and even within divisions there are different kinds of projects requiring different approaches. What is now required is a more systematic approach based on agreed principles and as far as possible on standard procedures, having regard to the different requirements of C.F.T.C.'s constituent programmes. Evaluations will be utilized—

- (a) to improve management's performance by building up an institutional memory; and
- (b) to facilitate management's accountability to the BOR.

C.F.T.C. evaluation is seen as primarily an in-house responsibility, to be carried out in a way which takes full account of resource constraints and the need to preserve flexibility and sensitivity in operations, together with administrative simplicity and the special quality of intimacy and confidence which characterizes the fund's relations with its user governments.

C.F.T.C.'s planning mechanism provides for the review by the BOR every second year of the fund's three-year planning profile. The fund's activities are guided by these three-year plans which are rolled over every two years and which set targets for the total revenue and expenditure of the fund as well as for more detailed programme and sectoral objectives. There is a requirement for these biennial reviews to be supported by evaluative assessments of the different programme areas. C.F.T.C. evaluation is also seen as closely related to project appraisal and monitoring.

Functions.—The chief project officer (evaluation) is responsible to the managing director, C.F.T.C. and, in close consultation with programme directors, assists him in the following activities:

- (1) Developing in consultation with director of C.F.T.C. and C.F.T.C.-funded programmes, appropriate methodologies and procedures and consistent standards for the systematic evaluation of projects.
- (2) Assisting programme directors in monitoring the application of agreed methodologies and procedures.
- (3) Preparing papers on planning and evaluation for internal purposes and for submission to the governing bodies of the fund.
- (4) Arranging evaluative assessments of selected programme and sectoral activities as required.
- (5) Undertaking ad hoc project evaluations as required.
- (6) Co-ordinating the preparation of C.F.T.C.'s biennial three-year planning profiles.

Qualifications.—Proven administrative, analytical, programming and communication skills with either a background in applied economics or practical experience in development administration. The successful candidate will probably have a degree and/or a postgraduate qualification in social sciences. A formal qualification in project planning would be an advantage, but considerable weight will be given to relevant practical experience, particularly in project appraisal and design, monitoring and evaluation. Candidates should have worked in or with the government or parastatal sector in a developing country. The ability to draft clearly and succinctly is important as are numerical skills. Personal qualities required include judgement, flexibility, tact, attention to detail and sensitivity to the development priorities of Commonwealth governments.

Salary scale.—£12,288; £12,648; £13,044; £13,488 per annum net of current British Income Tax.

Basic gross salary.—£16,188; £16,716; £17,280; £17,916 per annum.

Expatriation allowance.—17.5 per cent of basic gross salary (married) two-thirds of married rate (single).

Department allowance.—£250 for each dependent child (net) per annum.

Installation grant.—9 per cent of net basic salary (married) or 6 per cent of net basic salary (single) on taking up appointment.

Transfer grant.—9 per cent of net basic salary (married) or 6 per cent of net basic salary (single) on termination of appointment.

Furnished accommodation, outer London.—Single £125 per week, married £139 per week, married with 2 or 3 children £166 per week, married with 4 or more children £194 per week.

Travel.—Economy class by air.

Entertainment allowance.—An accountable entertainment allowance of up to £420 per annum.

Children's education assistance.—An education assistance is payable in respect of dependent children attending school or university.

(a) In the United Kingdom.—Basic tuition fees at a day school or tuition and boarding fees at a boarding school within a maximum of £2,660 per annum per child. Fees for tuition and boarding in respect of university education within a maximum of £2,660 per annum per child.

(b) In the officer's home country.—Basic tuition fees at a day school or tuition and boarding fees at a boarding school or university within a maximum of £2,660 per annum per child.

(c) In a third country.—With permission of the secretary-general, an officer's children may be educated in a third country at boarding school or university and tuition and boarding fees will be payable within a maximum of £2,420 per annum per child.

Reimbursement of educational fees up to the ceilings above will only be made on production of receipted bills.

Cost of packing.—The secretariat will pay the cost of packing, transporting by sea and unpacking a staff member's effects up to 1,000 cubic feet in the case of an unmarried officer, and up to 1,500 cubic feet in the case of a married officer plus an allowance of 100 cubic feet per dependent child residing with the head of the family. In addition, up to 15 kilograms of excess accompanied luggage by air will be allowed on joining and termination for the officer, his wife and each dependent child. No separate allowance will be made for transporting an automobile and not more than one automobile may be allowed to be transported. The secretariat will meet the reasonable cost of insurance of personal effect.

VACANCY OFFERED BY COMMONWEALTH SECRETARIAT—(Contd.)

When first taking up an appointment and provided an officer stays in an approved hotel, subsistence allowance at the appropriate rates will be paid in respect of the officer, his wife and his dependent children for a period of up to one month from the date of the officer's arrival in post.

Annual leave.—Thirty working days per year. The officer is entitled to home leave once in every two years of qualifying service and the secretariat will pay the return air fares for the officer, his wife and his dependent children.

Pension/gratuity.—If the officer is not required to contribute to a superannuation scheme of the seconding government or any private or university superannuation scheme, he may join the secretariat's pension scheme. The officer will in that event be required to contribute 6 per cent of gross salary. If the officer leaves the secretariat before the completion of five years' service and has joined the secretariat's pension scheme only his contributions will be refunded; where the officer leaves the secretariat after having completed five years' service, he will be entitled to a deferred pension payable from the age of 60 years. Overseas officers, however, normally participate in the gratuity scheme, into which the secretariat contributes 15 per cent of gross salary for each officer. The gratuity is then paid at the end of contract/ service with any accrued interest.

Diplomatic immunities and privileges.—To enjoy (provided they are not citizens of, or permanently resident in, the United Kingdom) the privileges and immunities appropriate to a diplomatic agent of comparable rank, appropriate arrangements being made in respect of British Income Tax.

This implies full personal immunities extending to the family of the officer, inviolability of private residence, continuing customs privileges, relief from non-beneficial rates and purchases without payment of tax of British motor-cars or supplies of dutiable spirits, etc.

Travel time.—An officer recruited from overseas will be allowed travel time not exceeding three days for the direct journey from overseas base to London and he may be paid for this travel time basic salary only.

6. Post title.—SENIOR HYDROGEOLOGIST.

Duration.—One year.

Date required.—November, 1984.

Duty station.—Bangkok.

Duties.—The senior hydrogeologist will assist the Department of Mineral Resources (D.M.R.) and will be responsible for the following:

(1) Planning and co-ordination of technical assistance and project work programme. Advise on selection of parameters and preparation of the forms of systematization of well records (lithostratigraphy, technical data and water quality data), selection of base map system, presentation of data (retrieval) by using manual and computer-assisted techniques, hydrogeological assistance in interpretation of well records, outline of organizational set up of a permanent well records section and preparation of programme for countrywide implementation of groundwater data banking including training programme for the counterpart staff.

(2) Development or tailoring of a software package for storing and retrieval of all groundwater related data to be stored at the groundwater computing centre and preparation of documentation (programme documentation and users manuals for this package).

(3) Monitoring project progress and producing project outputs and drafting terminal report. Prepare 3 monthly progress reports.

(4) Prepare a final report, setting out the findings of his mission and his recommendations to the government on further actions which might be taken.

Qualifications.—Groundwater engineer or hydrogeologist with extensive experience preferably from developing countries in setting up the system and procedures for establishment of groundwater data banks. Very extensive experience in the overall aspects of groundwater engineering and several years in groundwater data processing, including use of computer-assisted devices.

Language.—English.

Purpose of the project:

(1) To establish a system at D.M.R., with a minimum of suitably trained staff, for the compilation, collection, systematization, storage, processing and retrieval of existing groundwater data in D.M.R.'s records from an area situated in the Korat plateau near Nakorn Ratchasima.

(2) To determine the feasibility of utilizing computer-assisted devices for the handling and presentation of groundwater data with a view to the eventual transfer of D.M.R.'s records to computer storage.

(3) To prepare a programme for the countrywide mapping/plotting of groundwater data, including a proposal for the establishment of a permanent well records section at D.M.R.

Background information.—The development of groundwater in Thailand calls for very strict control and management for the following reasons:

(1) Although abundant groundwater is available, its exploitation must be limited: a thick top clay-layer in the flood plains prevents the direct natural recharge, thus making groundwater withdrawal mainly mining of one-time reserves. Excessive withdrawal is endangering existing wells by lowering water levels below the minimum setting of the well pumps.

(2) Surface water is becoming more scarce due to severe pollution problems and competing and increasing demands.

(3) Encroachment of poor quality water into aquifers.

(4) Groundwater exploitation in Bangkok is considered to contribute to land subsidence, reaching currently 10 cm. per year in some parts of the city.

The effective management of groundwater resources calls for an overall policy regarding the conjunctive use of both surface and groundwater resources and for the establishment of a legislative and institutional framework to support efficiently this policy, a comprehensive assessment of available surface and groundwater resources constitutes an essential element in policy formulation and resource management. Presently, a storage/retrieval system has been established only for surface water data. With respect to groundwater, data are scattered in different government agencies and they need to be up-graded qualitatively and quantitatively.

The United Nations would welcome the participation of suitably qualified candidates, both female and male, in the technical co-operation programmes. The recipients of this job description are, therefore, urged to make every effort to locate and nominate suitable candidates both female and male, for this vacancy. It should be emphasized in this connection that experts are engaged in duties which consist in the transfer of knowledge, techniques and aptitudes. Success in their assignment depends as much on their expressive skills, their empathy with and sensitivity to the needs, particularities and values of the host country, as on their academic background and professional competence.

Nomination date.—Before 1st August, 1984.

7. Post title.—CENSUS DATA PROCESSING EXPERT.

Duration.—One year with possibility of extension.

Date required.—October, 1984, or earlier if possible.

Duty station.—Khartoum.

Duties.—Under the guidance of the director-general of the department of statistics and in close co-operation with other national counterparts, the expert will be expected to organize the census data processing activities and assist in all aspects of that work. In particular, he/she will:

(1) Assist in the planning and installation of the new computer system, including site preparation, and the organization of the new facility.

(2) Develop systems for the control of data flow, file creation, validation and error correction for tabulation and for subsequent access to the data.

(3) Train operators to perform data entry and validation of census data on direct data-entry devices, participate in systems analysis and programming training to the computer centre staff for efficient use of the new computer especially for census data processing.

(4) Adapt and install at the department of statistics computer software packages, e.g., COCENTS/CENTS 4 and CONCOR, for the editing and validation, error correction and the tabulation of census data, and train personnel of the data processing section in their use.

(5) Write programmes as and when necessary for data editing, correction, imputation, tabulation and analysis, using appropriate software.

(6) Perform any other function as necessary to assist in the effective processing of the census data.

(7) Prepare and submit to the United Nations and to the government any partial, periodic and final reports on the project activities, particularly on the progress of the census data processing, as may be required.

(8) Submit a final report, setting out the findings of his mission and his recommendations to the government on further actions which might be taken.

Qualifications:

(1) University degree in computer science or advanced training and/or equivalent experience in computer methods.

(2) Significant experience and expertise in statistical data processing with knowledge of census or survey micro-data processing techniques.

(3) Good knowledge of the main programming languages, including COBOL and FORTRAN.

(4) Thorough familiarity and experience with software packages such as concor, cocents and cents IV.

VACANCIES OFFERED BY U.N.—(Contd.)

(5) Training in and experience of working on any of the latest ICL Computer systems is desirable, familiarity with ICL ME 29 desirable.

Languages.—English and Arabic an advantage.

Background information.—The United Nations Fund for Population Activities (UNFPA) provided assistance for the 1983 census in the form of advisory services, data processing, equipment and supplies. The U.N. Department of Technical Co-operation for Development (D.T.C.D.) has been executing the project. With the help of United Nations assistance, the department of statistics of the Government of Sudan, replaced its IBM 360/30 computer in 1983, with an ICL ME 29 Computer System, configured with 1 MB CPU memory two disk drives each with combined 129 MB fixed and 60 MB exchangeable disks, two magnetic tape units and two line printers, and a large number of non-line workstations for data entry using, ICL data drive software, and for interactive programming. The computer system, including the data entry terminals, are at present located at the old computer centre site. These will be transferred to a new site which is under preparation in a new building. The government had undertaken a population and housing census in February-March, 1983. Data was collected through two types of questionnaires:

(1) One short schedule was administered to the rural population (approximately 15.7 million population in 3.2 million households).

(2) One long schedule was filled for the urban population and a sample of the rural population (approximately 4.9 million population in 0.8 million households).

(3) The expert will advise and assist in making effective use of the computer equipment for the timely and efficient processing of the census data.

The United Nations would welcome the participation of suitably qualified male and female candidates in the technical co-operation programmes. The recipients of this job description are, therefore, urged to make every effort to locate and nominate suitable candidates both female and male, for this vacancy. It should be emphasized in this connection that experts are engaged in duties which consist in the transfer of knowledge, techniques and aptitudes. Success in their assignment depends as much on their expressive skills, their empathy with and sensitivity to the needs, particularities and values of the host country, as on their academic background and professional competence.

Nomination date.—Before 25th July, 1984.

8. Post title.—TECHNICAL ADVISER on geothermal/geothermal reservoir and production engineer.

Duration.—One year with possibility of extension.

Date required.—November, 1984.

Duty station.—United Nations headquarters, New York.

Duties.—The geothermal reservoir and production engineer will advise and assist the energy resources branch of the Department of Technical Co-operation for Development (D.T.C.D.) in the implementation of its geothermal programme. Specifically, the expert will be required to carry out the following duties:

(1) Provide technical support to United Nations Development Programme (U.N.D.P.) financed projects in the field of geothermal energy including assessment and evaluation of project reports and evaluation of bids for sub-contracts.

(2) Prepare work programmes and technical specifications for equipment and activities related to production tests of geothermal wells, gathering of geothermal reservoir data and their interpretations, including evaluation of bids for sub-contracts and equipment.

(3) Undertake field assignments in response to government requests for advice and assistance in the fields of geothermal fluid production, waste fluid, disposal and reservoir management, including substantive support to United Nations experts assigned to geothermal projects and evaluation of their reports.

(4) Advise on the design and implementation of geothermal feasibility studies and field development projects financed under the United Nations Development Programme.

(5) Prepare technical reports for submission to governments, as required.

(6) Perform other related technical duties within his field of competence as may be required.

(7) Prepare a final report, setting out the findings of his mission and his recommendations to the government on further actions which might be taken.

Qualifications.—University degree in earth sciences, physics or engineering with considerable knowledge of classical reservoir engineering and several years of first-hand experience in geothermal fluid production and gathering and interpretation of geothermal reservoir data. Familiar with equipment devices and instrumentation necessary for well logging, in-hole and surface measurements, computerized data handling and interpretation and reservoir simulation programmes. Direct work experience in developing countries is desirable.

Languages.—English, ability to draft clear reports is essential, French and Spanish desirable.

Background information.—The United Nations, through the division for natural resources and energy, department of technical co-operation for development, has a wide ranging programme of co-operation with developing countries in connection with energy problems, including those related to geothermal energy. In recent years there has been an increase in interest for the exploration and development of geothermal energy in the developing countries. The division is presently implementing several projects in the field of geothermal energy and further requests are anticipated.

The United Nations would welcome the participation of suitably qualified male and female candidates in the technical co-operation programmes. The recipients of this job description are, therefore, urged to make every effort to locate and nominate suitable candidates both female and male, for this vacancy. It should be emphasized in this connection that experts are engaged in duties which consist in the transfer of knowledge, techniques and aptitudes. Nomination date.—Before 1st August, 1984.

9. Post title.—SENIOR STATISTICAL ADVISER.

Duration.—One year with possibility of extension.

Date required.—September, 1984 or earlier if possible.

Duty station.—Kano State.

Duties.—Working in close collaboration with the staff of the Central Statistical Department of the Ministry of Economic Development and Planning, the expert will:

(1) Identify and formulate the actual needs of the statistical division taking into consideration the work programme for statistical development, provided for eventual additional advisers and/or consultants as well as required items of equipment.

(2) Assist in developing proper sample designs for the collection of demographic, social, economic and other data needed by the government for its development planning purposes.

(3) Advise on the organization and conduct of various sample surveys undertaken by the state statistical division.

(4) Establish systematic methods through which data are continually extracted from official administrative records and prepare technical notes on sources and methodology for compilation of various socio-economic statistics.

(5) Organize the responsibilities of various sections of the state statistical division to enable the staff to work efficiently and effectively.

(6) Organize in-service training and on-the-job training for junior and middle-level staff as well as training through fellowship for senior professional staff.

(7) Advise the state on all statistical matters.

(8) He/she will prepare a final report, setting out the findings of his mission and his recommendations to the government on further actions which might be taken.

Qualifications.—Advanced university degree in statistics, considerable practical experience in economic statistics, statistical organization and conduct of sample surveys particularly in developing countries.

Language.—English.

Background information.—The importance of developing and establishing a viable statistical system in Kano State has been recognized by the government as an essential prerequisite not only for an intelligent formulation, implementation and evaluation of its successive development plans but also to provide rational guidance in carrying out efficiently various day-to-day administrative and regulatory functions associated with various social and economic sectors of state activity. The immediate objectivity of the project NIR/83/001 Statistical Services, Kano

10. Post title.—SOFTWARE ENGINEER.

Duration.—Three weeks.

Date required.—October, 1984.

Duty station.—Bucharest.

Duties.—The expert will be attached to the research Institute for Computers (I.T.C.), the government implementing agency, and will work in collaboration with the designated national counterpart staff in the project. He/she will be responsible for the development of a software package for interactive design of mechanical parts and sub-assemblies. In particular, he/she will:

(1) Advise on methods adopted and latest techniques used for the developing of programme for mini-computers in the field of Computer Aided Design (CAD).

(2) Advise on the menu technique and all other aspects involved in the man-machine dialogue for graphic interactive systems.

(3) Advise programmers and operators in resolving problems related to device independence in order to develop a general package suitable for a broad range of hardware configuration.

(4) Provide information on standard in graphics software (G.K.S.) and comparative information on various packages used in mechanical design field in developed countries, e.g., U.S.A., U.K., Sweden, etc.

(5) Prepare a final report, settling out the findings of his mission and his recommendations to the government on further actions which might be taken.

Qualifications.—Extensive experience in software for CAD systems, preferably with a degree in computer science. Familiarity with software packages in the field of the mechanical design on DEC, P.D.P. 111 series of mini-computer desirable.

Languages.—English or French.

Background information.—The Jiu Valley is one of the four coal districts in Romania, and it is characterized by an advanced level of mechanization and automation. One of the project aims is to develop a mini-computer interactive system for the mechanical design activities used in the mining sector. The research Institute for Computers (I.T.C.), the largest R. and D. agency of this kind in Romania, was designated as government implementing agency for this project.

I.T.C. is engaged, inter alia, in designing a wide range of computers and associated software packages and in exploring new application areas, such as CAD systems and graphic software packages. I.T.C. has several computer systems installed (many of them DEC, P.D.P. 11/34 compatible) which are being used for research and development.

The expert will impart programming skills, techniques and computer-related knowledge to the counterpart staff, for the development of a software package used in mechanical design.

THE REGISTERED LAND ACT

(Cap. 300, section 35)

ISSUE OF A NEW LAND CERTIFICATE

WHEREAS Muikamba Kimotho Githua (ID/6620696/69), of Ithekahuno Sub-location, Aguthi Location in the Republic of Kenya, is registered as proprietor in absolute ownership interest of all that piece of land containing 0.84 hectare, or thereabouts, situate in the district of Nyeri, registered under title No. Aguthi/Ithekahuno/699, and whereas sufficient evidence has been adduced to show that the land certificate issued thereof has been lost. Notice is given that after the expiration of sixty (60) days from the date hereof, I shall issue a new land certificate provided that no objection has been received within that period.

Dated the 22nd May, 1984.

K. M. WACHIRA,
Land Registrar,
Nyeri District.

GAZETTE NOTICE NO. 2695

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE NO. 111 OF 1983

Parties:

Kenya Union of Printing, Publishing, Paper Manufacturers and Allied Workers
and

Nation Newspaper Ltd.

Issue in dispute:

Refusal and failure to provide transport for their employees leaving duty at 9.30 p.m. involved in the newly-introduced shift by the management.

THE Kenya Union of Printing, Publishing, Paper Manufacturers and Allied Workers shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and Nation Newspaper Ltd. shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 30th April, 1984, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 11th October, 1983, duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 6th December, 1983, together with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner.

In the parties' collective agreement under clause 6, shift work is defined in details and in clause 25 under the heading of transportation it is provided:

"The member companies shall adopt a reasonable attitude in providing transport to those employees reporting for shift duty after 6.30 p.m. and leaving before 6 a.m. taking into account the physical safety of such employees and availability of transport facilities."

A shift worker is defined to be an employee who is regularly called to work wholly or partly hours outside the normal hours laid down by his employer subject to a minimum of 30 hours and to a maximum of 40 hours per week and the number of hours each day as specified being normal hours. The claimants have raised this dispute for the provision of transport for those employees who are required to report on duty during the second shift from 1.30 p.m. up to 9.30 p.m. Their contention is that such employees are shift employees within the provisions of clause 6 of the collective agreement.

The respondents have refused to accept this demand on the ground that this demand is outside the collective agreement and therefore could not be entertained. Their main submission for saying so is that they are required to provide transport to those employees only who report on shift duty after 6 p.m. and who leave before 6 a.m. The employees in respect of which the claimants are demanding transport at night do not fall within this category. The respondents further pleaded that there is ample public transport in Nairobi area up to midnight and therefore these employees had no problem getting home.

The court notes that the production employees at the respondents Nation House operations work in three shifts as follows:

Monday to Friday:

1st shift 8.30 a.m. to 5.00 p.m.	...	32 employees.
2nd shift 1.30 p.m. to 9.30 p.m.	...	27 employees.
3rd shift 5.00 p.m. to 2.30 a.m.	...	32 employees.

Saturdays.

One shift 4.00 p.m. to 9.30 p.m.	...	40 employees.
----------------------------------	-----	---------------

Sundays:

One shift 4.00 p.m. to 2.30 a.m.	...	40 employees.

The court was told that out of 27 employees who are on the second shift between 1.30 p.m. to 9.30 p.m. ten to fifteen are provided with transport because there is no bus service in the area where they live.

The respondents are part of printing trades group of the F.K.E. and are bound by the collective agreement between that group and the claimants in which the aforesaid two clauses material to this dispute appear. In this employers' group there are 50 members. It is obvious that any award made on any item that appears in that collective agreement will have an automatic application to the rest of the employers also. This dispute therefore has much wider implications as it will create a precedent in the printing industry.

The court was told that the respondents had tried to persuade the workers who are affected by this dispute to accept reasonable financial compensation as decided by the respondents and to drop the demand for free transport to their homes. The claimants' rejection of this offer was based on the fear of thugs who they claim were on the increase in Nairobi area. They also referred to one of the respondents' employees in industrial area being attacked by thugs and killed while reporting for duty at 7 p.m.

Unfortunately for the claimants although the respondents appear to have introduced a new shift from 1.30 p.m. to 9.30 p.m. during the lifetime of the aforesaid collective agreement, the provisions of clause 25 are still applicable and binding on them. The court fully appreciates the plight of the claimants' members who leave work at 9.30 p.m. in that they are exposed to thugs and many of them reach their houses between 10.30 p.m. and midnight. The fact, however, remains that under the collective agreement the respondents are required to provide free transport to those employees who report for shift work after 6 p.m. and who leave before 6 a.m. and that also taking into account the physical safety of such employees and availability of transport facilities. The provisions of the collective agreement are clearly in favour of the respondents until such time as the collective agreement is amended. The court would not like to make an award which would go contrary to the provisions of the existing collective agreement and the best course for the claimants is to make a demand against the printing trades group of the F.K.E. at the opportune time for amending clause 25 of the collective agreement along with other amendments they may have.

The court while rejecting the claimants' demand notes that at a meeting held between the parties on 9th May, 1982, the respondents had made an offer of paying these employees Kenya Bus fares to their respective homes and they also indicated that they would examine the possibility of bringing forward the late K.B.S. to transport the 9.30 p.m. workers. This arrangement, however, was temporary and would have depended on the success of producing pre-printing pages in the mornings instead of the evenings. The court would advise the workers to accept the financial compensation offered by the respondents until such time as the claimants succeeded in altering the provisions of the collective agreement and the court would also ask the respondents to seriously examine and try to bring forward the late Kenya Bus Service to transport the 9.30 p.m. workers. Apart from this the court cannot help the claimants' members any more in this dispute until such time as the collective agreement is amended. In the meantime the court upholds that the respondents are within their right to refuse to provide transport to their employees leaving duty at 9.30 p.m. The court cannot find any grounds to uphold the claimants' allegation that the respondents have violated the relevant clause in the collective agreement.

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 113 OF 1983

Parties:

Amalgamated Union of Kenya Metal Workers
and Musicraft Manufacturing (K) Ltd.

Issue in dispute:

Wrongful dismissal of Grace Wangari Mwangi.

THE Amalgamated Union of Kenya Metal Workers shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and Musicraft Manufacturing (K) Ltd. shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 26th April, 1984, and relied on their written and verbal submissions. They also called the following witnesses:

Claimants.—G. W. Mwangi.

Respondents.—A. Juma.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 16th April, 1982, duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 15th December, 1983, together with the statutory certificates signed by the Minister for Labour and the Labour Commissioner.

This is an interesting case as Grace Mwangi, the grievant, after joining the respondents on 2nd May, 1979, found herself by April, 1981, in the respondents' topmost grade, i.e. grade 6 in the post of alignment lady. This she achieved through the assistance of the claimants who insisted that the duties allocated to her were those specified in grade 6.

The respondents director admitted that he agreed to this promotion most reluctantly and had warned the claimants that he pitied poor Miss Wangari who will lose her job as a result of her promotion. He said that he would stop internal training and would be recruiting qualified manpower to fill those vacancies that will have occurred. He however, said there will be no witch-hunting to those promoted. These words were uttered by him at a meeting between the parties held on 23rd April, 1981. Mr. Juma, the director, followed the promotion by writing the following letter to Miss Mwangi:

"As a result of a meeting between the management and your union, the union felt that the current duties which you are now performing conformed to the grade 6. We mentioned that your ability and competence in this grade is below the required standard and that is why there is an alignment man responsible. But it was agreed that so long as you are in the alignment room then you should be promoted accordingly. We respect this decision and you are accordingly promoted. Congratulations.

Please note within this grade 6 there are other lines of duties namely: Line inspectors, final inspectors, quality inspectors, storekeepers and senior clerks. You may be called to work in any of these duties if required."

The next development in this dispute was that on 23rd July, 1981, the director gave her radio cassettes to repair as he felt that this type of repair was undertaken by employees in grade 6. Miss Mwangi had no clue about this work and when she was asked in writing why she had not repaired the cassettes she replied she is an alignment lady and had been trained in that work and had qualified for grade 6 in that line. She confessed she had no knowledge of repair work. There was a further exchange of letters on this subject and on 11th August, 1981, her services were terminated. She was offered the balance of terminal dues amounting to KSh. 1,334. The respondents had, however, offered to place her in grade 2 as learner assembler but the claimants rejected the offer.

The court heard the evidence of Miss Mwangi and the director and the court finds that obviously Miss Mwangi got a very big promotion (on representations made by the claimants) from grade 1 to grade 6 which grade includes job of line inspectors, alignment man, final inspector, quality control inspector, storekeeper and senior clerk. Miss Mwangi could not by any stretch of imagination do any of these jobs except that of aligning which is not such a complicated task. This being the position it is most unfortunate that the respondents succumbed to the claimants' pressure on a matter of promotion and the claimants are quite right when they say that the respondents' director could have told them there and then that he could not grant this promotion. They stated that not only did he agree to grant this promotion but he also undertook not to victimize any of the employees who were upgraded as a result of their representations. It is clear that the director all along had felt that Miss Mwangi did not deserve to be promoted to grade 6 but reluctantly agreed to upgrade her and then despite his undertaking not to victimize her, at an opportune time he created circumstances like asking her to repair cassettes which he knew she could not and then dismissed her.

The court is of the view that the director should have been firm and rejected this promotion despite the claimants' representations. The unfortunate part of this dispute is that the respondents agreed to the promotion and undertook not to victimize any employees but Miss Mwangi clearly was victimized when she was given a job which everybody knew she could not do. This was only to get rid of her.

In this dispute the court finds that both the parties are at fault but the blame lies more on the respondents who should have known better the management rights and prerogatives.

After careful consideration of all submissions the court finds that Miss Mwangi has suffered a wrongful dismissal. The court notes that the Ministry of Labour had also found that she had suffered a wrongful dismissal and had recommended three months' salary by way of compensation in addition to terminal benefits. The court finds that reinstatement is not warranted in this dispute as Miss Mwangi is certainly not entitled to be placed in grade 6. The court finds that an award of compensation would meet dictates of justice in this dispute and accordingly awards that the respondents should pay her five months' salary by way of compensation (salary per month for grade 6 is KSh. 1,120). This amount includes underpayment of KSh. 1,335 claimed by the claimants but does not include pay for days worked up to and including 11th August, 1981, KSh. 350, pay for accrued leave for 11 days, KSh. 467 which should be in addition to the compensation. The court directs the respondents to pay Miss Mwangi her dues as awarded by the court less any advances that she may have taken.

THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 130 OF 1982

Parties:

Amalgamated Union of Kenya Metal Workers
and

Davis & Shirliff Ltd.

Issue in dispute:

Recognition.

THE Amalgamated Union of Kenya Metal Workers shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and Davis & Shirliff Ltd. shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 6th June, 1983 and 29th February, 1984, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 18th September, 1983, duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 23rd December, 1982, together with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner.

In this dispute the claimants are seeking recognition from the respondents as they claim that they have recruited a majority of their employees into their membership since 1981. They had forwarded the relevant check-off form for collection of trade union dues section 45 of the Trade Disputes Act to the respondents which the latter denied having received. The claimants had also reported the matter to the Registrar of Trade Unions who in turn had written a couple of letters to the respondents but the latter told him also that they had never received the check-off notice from the claimants. It appears that the respondents then informed the claimants that although they had been in business for 35 years they had no connections with any trade union and had not even been approached by any trade union for recognition.

The respondents' predecessor was a small plumbing and water engineering firm called R. H. Paige & Co. which was bought by E. C. Davis and in 1946 F. R. Shritliff purchased 50 per cent of the company and the respondents came into being.

The respondents' business in earlier days was designing and installing of water supplies and maintenance of water related equipment and it has since then grown steadily on construction and installation work and now they specialize in the construction of swimming pools, water storage facilities, electrical submersible pumps and other large-scale projects.

The court is satisfied that the respondents are basically in the business of construction of storage and water treatment facilities. They have in their employment 145 persons and they are deployed as follows:

- 41 employees operating in various field sites as plumbers and borehole crews.
- 33 employees in the construction department and carry on the building business.
- 18 employees closely associated with the field and building department is a support transport department being drivers, turnboys and mechanics.
- 16 employees in mechanical workshop which conducts mechanical repairs principally to pumps and also includes lathe operators making spare parts.
- 18 employees responsible for light steel fabrication in support of construction activities. This fabrication workshop builds tanks and towers for water projects, filters for swimming pools, water treatment plans and various accessories required by the mainstream operation.
- 19 employees: clerical and office staff, messengers, watchmen, and telephonists, etc.

The court has no reason to doubt the respondents' submission that 92 workers are engaged in civil engineering work in the field and they are supported by workshop and office employees by the remaining workers. They maintain that they are in construction and civil engineering industry. The claimants, however, do not accept this and have argued that they are an industry engaged in metal working and to some extent involving electrical work, and since there was no rival trade union there should be no difficulty in awarding them recognition. They referred the court to a letter from the Registrar of Trade Unions in which he had informed the respondents that the claimants by virtue of their registered constitution were competent to represent the interests of their unionizable employees. They also referred the court to the finding of the Ministry of Labour investigator which was in their favour.

The respondents have very vigorously opposed this submission by the claimants on the ground that they were the founder members of the Kenya Association of Building and Civil Engineering Contractors and had always abided by and implemented the terms and conditions of employment for all their employees which were negotiated between that employer's group and the Kenya Building, Construction, Civil Engineering and Allied Trades' Workers' Union. They stressed that if the employees had not joined the building union then it was not their fault as it was up to the workers to do so. They maintained that the nature of their industry fell within the Building Employers' Group and that the metal operations in their undertaking were only of supportive nature to their main work of building swimming pools and other water works. They bitterly criticized the Ministry of Labour investigator on the ground that he had failed to understand the nature of the dispute and that as such proceeded to give a recommendation completely devoid of logic and fair judgment. They accused him of not giving them an opportunity of presenting their case and also failing to establish what was their line of business. He also allowed the claimants to mislead him by accepting their allegation that the respondents were registered as hydraulic, mechanical and agricultural engineers!

The court finds this dispute to be rather important because of the issues involved in it. The points that are clearly established highlighting the complicated nature of this dispute are that the respondents are pioneers of the Building Employers Group and appear in several places in the list of members of this group under various headings. They are mentioned as members under civil engineering and road contractors category, then they appear under plumbing contractors and mechanical services group and they are also mentioned under filtration group. All these groups are part of the building industry. There are several electrical contractors also mentioned as members of this group, who, it is not disputed, have a separate recognition and collective agreement with the claimants.

There is no dispute that the respondents' employees did not belong to any trade union until they were recruited by the claimants.

The court finds it proved that most of the respondents' current contracts, details of which were submitted during the hearing, involve construction of swimming pools and changing rooms, supply and installation of swimming pool filters and associated piping, borehole pumps with generators and water treatment plants with storage tanks.

In disputes of this nature which are unlike a trade union fighting against an employer for better terms and conditions of employment as such (although that would be the next step if recognition is granted to the claimants) but they are strictly disputes between two trade unions and although the Building Union is not a party to this dispute they did write to the Minister of Labour that they had an interest in this dispute as the employers were members of the Building Employers' Group through which they recognized the Building Union. The court must emphasize that while it has every sympathy with a trade union which goes and organize workers in an undertaking this fact in itself is not sufficient for that trade union to be granted recognition if the nature of the employer's industry clearly falls outside the scope of that particular trade union's membership. In this dispute the court has to determine what is the predominating nature of the respondents' business and after careful consideration of all the submissions the court finds that they fall within the building industry and that about 70 per cent of their workers are involved in that activity. The remaining small percentage is engaged in supportive activities which also handle metal.

The court has to be extremely careful in these matters and would seriously urge the trade unions also to be extremely cautious in these disputes otherwise a "free for all" situation will develop and the workers will haphazardly join any trade union that they can get hold of. This will lead to chaos and a big mix-up. The court feels that it is a duty of each and every trade union that where they find that workers are not organized and members of any trade union they should alert their sister trade union which is the proper trade union for that industry so that the proper trade union can go and recruit members into their membership. It would not be out of place for trade unions through COTU to set up a co-ordinating body in this regard because after all the important thing is that the workers should enjoy trade union representation and protection but it is important that they should do so under the umbrella of the proper trade union for that industry.

The court finds that the Ministry of Labour investigator overlooked extremely important points during the investigation and that the Division of Manpower Planning and Development report was also mixed up with another company which had a somewhat similar name as the respondents'.

The court after having given a serious consideration to this dispute finds that the claimants' demand must fail because the respondents are in the building industry and they recognize the Building Union through the Building Employers' Group and it is up to this Building Union to go and recruit the respondents' employees or the respondents' employees to go and join that union if they so desire. The court accordingly rejects claimants' demand.

THE TRADE MARKS ACT
(Cap. 506)

NOTICE is given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within 60 days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on Form TM. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of KSh. 50.

Notice is also given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified, it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him an opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are, as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, State Law Office, Nairobi.

Applications for registration in part A of the register are shown with the official number unaccompanied by any letter. Applications for part B are distinguished by the letter B prefixed to the official number.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS TO THE KENYA GAZETTE

THE following notes are for the guidance of persons submitting "copy" for inclusion in the Kenya Gazette, Supplements, etc.:

- (1) The Kenya Gazette contains notices of a general nature which do not affect legislation. They are therefore submitted to the Government Printer directly.
- (2) Legislative Supplement contains Rules and Regulations which are issued by the Central Government. Because of this they must be submitted to the Government Printer through the office of the Attorney-General.
- (3) Bill Supplement contains Bills which are for introduction in the National Assembly.
- (4) Act Supplement contains Acts passed by the National Assembly.

All "copy" submitted for publication should be prepared on one side of an A4 sheet no matter how small the notice or Act, each page being numbered, and should be typewritten with double spacing. Copy should be clear, legible and contain a minimum of alterations.

Particular attention should be paid to the following points:

- (i) Signatures must be clarified by means of rubber-stamping or typing the name of the signer in capital letters.
- (ii) Dates must be correct and filled in where necessary.
- (iii) Care should be taken to ensure that all headings to notices and references to legislation are up to date and conform with the Revised Edition of the Laws of Kenya.

EXTRACT FROM THE CODE OF REGULATIONS, SECTION D—Kenya Gazette

"D.14.(1) Communications for the Kenya Gazette should reach the Government Printer not later than 12 noon, on Tuesday of the week that publication is desired. The Government Printer will not publish communications received after that hour until the next subsequent issue of the Gazette.

(2) It will facilitate work at the Press if Permanent Secretaries will forward Gazette notices to the Government Printer when ready."

It is emphasized that these notes are for guidance only, but it is requested that persons submitting copy for publication first satisfy themselves that such copy is complete in every respect.
