THE INDUSTRIAL COURT

CAUSE No. 29 OF 1991

Parties:

Kenya Building Construction, Civil Engineering and Allied
Trades Workers Union
and

Kay Construction Company Limited

Issue in dispute:

Recognition.

THE Kenya Building, Construction, Civil Engineering and Allied Trades Workers Union shall hereinafter be referred to as the claimants and the Kay Construction Company Limited shall hereinafter be referred to as the respondents.

2. The parties were heard in Nairobi on 7th August, 1991, and relied on their written and verbal submissions.

AWARD

3. The Notification of Dispute Form "A" dated 2nd April, 1990, duly signed by the parties was received by the court on 19th April, 1991, together with the statutory certificate signed by the Labour Commissioner.

The respondents were incorporated as a private limited company in 1984. They engage primarily in building and construction business.

The respondents employ a total labour force of 208 employees who are subject of this dispute.

This dispute arose in July, 1976, when the claimants approached the respondents seeking to be accorded recognition. The claimants demand was rejected by the respondents. Subsequently, on 20th December, 1976, the dispute was reported to the Minister for Labour. The dispute was thereafter investigated by the Ministry of Labour.

However, before the Ministry of Labour completed its investigations the respondents opted to join Kenya Association of Building and Civil Engineering Contractors, an association with whom the claimants had a recognition agreement. As a result, the dispute was treated as amicably settled.

The claimants submitted that, they were surprised in June, 1986, when the respondents chose to withdraw from the association after having been members for 10 years. Subsequently the recognition dispute was revived on 19th February, 1988 and, in the circumstances, they had to seek redress through the laid down machinery in order to obtain recognition from the respondents.

The matter was investigated by the Ministry of Labour and the investigation report was released to the parties on 15th March, 1990. The investigation report was not in the favour of the claimants and they rejected it.

The ministry's findings were that the claimants had not recruited the mandatory simple majority of 51 per cent. It was recommended that the respondents should not accord the claimants recognition until such time they had recruited the mandatory simple majority of 51 per cent membership. The recommendation was turned down by the claimants and the matter is now before the court for consideration.

The claimants summed up their submission by telling the court that the finding and recommendation by the Ministry of Labour were biased and the court should dismiss them and, make an award in their favour.

The respondents felt that, there was no justification for granting recognition to the claimants because they have no members to represent and their claim for recognition should be dismissed. They requested the court to reject the claimants demand in total as it has no merit.

After careful consideration of all the submissions the court finds that the claimants have failed to prove satisfactorily that they have in their membership a simple majority of the respondents employees. In fact they are far short of that target.

The court must, however, caution the respondents that they are in a subtle manner intimidating their employees so that they are reluctant to join their trade union—this is in the form of a letter which the respondents have issued to their employees requiring them to tell their employer three months in advance of their intention to join the trade union.

The respondents should let their employees join their proper trade union if they so wish—no obstacles should be placed in their way.

With the above remarks the court rules that for the time being the claimants' demand must fail. There is no dispute that the claimants are the proper trade union for the respondents employees but until the claimants enrol a simple majority of the respondents employees into their membership there is no way the court can order the respondents to recognize the claimants.

Dated the 4th September, 1991.
