GAZETTE NOTICE NO. 141

IN THE INDUSTRIAL COURT OF KENYA AT NAIROBI

CAUSE NO. 32 OF 1998.

Parties:

Kenya Airline Pilots' Association—(Claimants)

VERSUS

Kenya Airways Limited—(Respondents)

Issue in Dispute:

Wrongful termination of services of Captain Theophilus Murimi Mwangi" (hereinafter called the grievant).

Gerald G. Asuna-Odero, Executive Secretary, for the Claimants (hereinafter called the Association).

Kiragu Kimani, Advocate, of Hamilton, Harrison & Mathews, Advocates, for the Respondents (hereinafter called the Company).

AWARD

The Notification of Dispute in Form "A", dated 9th March 1998, together with the statutory certificates from the Labour Commissioner and the Minister for Labour, under sections 14 (7) and (9) (e) and (f) of the Trade Disputes Act, Cap. 234, laws of Kenya (which is hereinafter referred to as the Act), were received by the Court on 8th April, 1998. The dispute was then listed for mention on 22nd April, 1998 and the representatives of the parties were notified to attend. On this occasion, Paul Ndivo appeared for the Company, but there was no appearance for the Association. In the circumstances, the matter was listed for another mention on 14th May, 1998, when Messrs. Odero and Kimani, who appeared for the parties respectively, were directed to submit or file their respective written memoranda or statements on or before 12th June and 3rd July, 1998, and the dispute was fixed for hearing on 15th July, 1998. Odero belatedly submitted his memorandum on 2nd July, 1998, while Kimani filed his reply statement on 15th September, 1998. Consequently, the case was heard on diverse dates between 17th March, 1999 and 16th June, 2000, i.e. on 17th March, 4th and 11th June, 1st, 2nd and 7th September, 1999 and 17th March, 5th May, 9th and 16th June, 2000. The Company called three witnesses, namely, Rino Njoroge, Cabin Attendant, R.W.I, Capt. Joseph D. Kinuthia, R.W.2 and Capt. Patrick G. Musyoki, R.W.3, to testify on their behalf, but the Association did not call any witnesses.

I need not recount or refer to the mass of allegations in the parties' written memoranda or statements as they are not relevant for consideration and determination of this case. Therefore, the issue in dispute is kept free from the chaff.

In this case, the services of the grievant, who was one of the senior pilots in the Company's establishment and a Trustee of the Association, were dispensed with on 28th April, 1995 with effect from 27th April, 1995, consequent upon the Board of Directors' meeting held on the previous day, i.e. 27th April, 1995, that was apparently convened to receive and consider a report on the deliberations of the Staff Committee of the Board (hereinafter referred to as the Committee), which heard the grievant's appeal on 12th April, 1995, R. Exh.I. During the course of the proceedings of the said Committee, the grievant and Capt. Kinyanjui were excused from the meeting and the Committee invited the Managing Director, Brian Davies, to the meeting and sought his comments on various allegations made to it (Committee) by the grievant and Capt. Kinyanjui. The Managing Director responded as follows—

- (a) "There is no substantive difference between fuel venting and fuel spillage. Loss of one ton of fuel is excessive by a large margin considering that APU burn-off could not have exceeded 150 kg. in the period between push-back and take-off.
- (b) The A310 Fleet Manual recommends investigation of any suspicion of fuel loss on the ground before take-off and during flight. Clearly the report by cabin crew should have been investigated.
- (c) The aircraft had been repaired to rectify the fuel spillage problem by replacing the unserviceable transfer valve.

(d) An overweight landing must be recorded in the techlog by the Captain. Not to do so is a serious omission. He is not aware that F/O Mwangi had been forgiven by the Technical Director for the omission and such "forgiveness" could not constrain him or the Board from taking action on the matter.

(e) F/O Mwangi's service record is not as good as asserted by him and he would provide the Committee with a summary of F/O Mwangi's service record.

(f) F/O Mwangi's assertion that it was he or KALPA who initiated the enquiry is not correct. He recalled having instructed A310 Fleet Manager Capt. Kinuthia to review the flight but admitted Capt. Kinuthia's investigation was not exhaustive.

(g) F/O Mwangi did not consult Station Manager Rome regarding a nightstop instead of a refuel techstop and walked off the aircraft and went to the crew hotel".

In conclusion, the report of the Committee ran as hereunder:

"The Committee thereafter excused the Managing Director from the meeting in order to consider and deliberate on the several grounds of appeal and the evidence adduced in support thereof. Following lengthy consultations and review of evidence the Committee was of the opinion that there was no basis for interfering with the decision of the Managing Director to sustain the demotion of F/O Mwangi. In particular whatever substance there may be in the allegations of defective procedure and denial of natural justice, it was the view of the Committee that no miscarriage of justice had arisen as a result and that F/O Mwangi had been given ample opportunity throughout the inquiry and appeal process to assert and prove his defences to the allegations of having operated flight KQ 103 without due regard to the safety of passengers.

It was agreed that as soon as the record of the proceedings was ready, including additional comment by Management on the appeal documentation, M/S. Kilonzo and Kapila would prepare a recommendation to the Board on that basis....."

There is no evidence on the record to show what "additional comment by the Management on the appeal documentation" and "recommendation" were made by the Committee to the Board of Directors. But it would appear that the only relevant comments made by the Managing Director to the Committee, which weighed heavily in the minds of the members of the Board of Directors, were allegedly the gravity of the grievant's misconduct and also his exceedingly poor past or previous service or employment record, Ann. Q.

It is not, however, shown how the grievant's past or previous service or employment record became "exceedingly poor", except that at page 26 hereinabove the Company alleged that the Board of Directors noted, inter alia, that on 24th January, 1978, the grievant failed to attend a link training; that on 19th November, 1978, he reported late for flight No. KQ 781; that on 18th November, 1979, the grievant could not be found at his house while he was on stand-by duty; that he was suspended for a while on 26th May, 1980; that he was absent from duty on 17th May, 1981, and that he was not available for stand-by duties on 25th May, 1981. There is no evidence on the record to support these allegations; but if indeed the grievant committed the alleged offences or misconducts, then presumably disciplinary action was taken against him in each case, and the same are, therefore, not relevant in the present case because these offences or misconducts were allegedly committed over 20 years ago. It is clear that the Committee, the Board of Directors and the Managing Director, engaged in a combing or searching spree of the grievant's past or previous service or employment record and attempted to gild the lily and dredge up all sorts of shortcomings in order to justify the dismissal of the grievant. There are dangers in this approach, as shown by Smith v. City of Glasgow D.C. (1987) I.R.L.R. 326, HL. Here the employers alleged that the employee had been dismissed for incapacity, evidenced by three specific allegations of incompetence. The employment tribunal considered that one of these allegations could not be substantiated. In these circumstances, the House of Lords held that the dismissal was unfair: the employers had not shown that the unsubstantiated allegation did not form a main part of their reason for dismissal, and it could not be reasonable to dismiss an employee for a reason which could not be supported. In any case, the letter of dismissal to the grievant did not contain any particulars of the alleged past or previous offences, and it was, therefore, not possible for him to meet the charges, if any, as regards his alleged past or previous misconduct. In the circumstances, it is not possible for me to uphold the action taken by the Management of the Company against him on the ground of his past or previous service or employment record.

The learned counsel for the Company submitted that the grievant was dismissed in accordance with or under Clause 29(a)(c) and (e) of the parties' collective agreement, which state as follows:

"29. Dismissal:

The Company may dismiss an employee from service if it is satisfied that the employee has committed, inter alia, the following offences:

(a) Wilfully neglecting the interests of the Company.

(b)

(c) Conducting himself in a manner likely to bring the Company's name into disrepute.

(d)

(e) Neglecting to perform Company's duties or performing them wrongly.

(f)

(h)"

The grievant was suspended, demoted and finally dismissed for poor airmanship or on the ground that he unprofessionally operated or handled flight No.KQ.103 from London to Nairobi on 20th October, 1994, contrary to the required practice and without due regard to safety of the passengers. According to the learned counsel for the Company, Mr. Kimani, some of the instances of the alleged negligence were that the grievant did not heed the warning by the Purser that fuel was heavily leaking or spilling from the aircraft; that he did not utilize ground aids, especially the ground engineers, to assist him in finding out, or to establish, the abnormal loss of the fuel; that he risked a crash and loss of life by continuing with the journey or flight with a defective or unairworthy aircraft; that he should have aborted the flight; that he flew at a low altitude, thus burning more fuel; that he should not have diverted to Rome without informing the Operations Department that he was unable to fly from London to Nairobi direct or non-stop; that the grievant should have returned to Heathrow Airport; that, on official enquiry, the grievant was found not to have consulted the Station Manager, Rome, regarding a nightstop instead of a refuel techstop, and that he walked off the aircraft and went to the crew hotel, etc. All the above allegations were strenuously denied by the Association; and, on the contrary, maintained that the plane or aircraft was mechanically perfect and fully airworthy when it left London for Nairobi as it was certified and cleared by the ground engineers who found and declared that the plane or aircraft was serviceable and safe to depart. While airborne, however, bleed valve No. 2 failed or malfunctioned, thus forcing the grievant to fly at a low altitude, with consequential increase in fuel consumption.

The alleged incident was investigated by a panel of enquiry, comprising of Head of Personnel, Mr. B. Mtuweta, Manager, Fleet Standards, Capt. Musyoki, and Manager, Air Safety, Mr. N. Biwott, who visited London and Rome, without the inclusion and participation of a representative of the Association, Ann. G., contrary to the provisions of Clause 24(d) of the parties' collective agreement, which states as follows:

"24. Inquiry and Accident Investigation.

(d) A nominee of the Association who is an employee of the Company will be given normal facilities to travel to the scene of the incident under investigation by the relevant aeronautical authority, and will in this respect, be eligible for duty travel allowance as if he was on duty. However, if the nominee is not an employee of the Company, the Company will provide him with an air ticket on Kenya Airways services up to the airport nearest to the scene of the incident. Such nominee, shall be afforded access to any information in possession of the Company's investigation team at all times".

The Association contended that, contrary to the rules and principles of natural justice and despite several requests, the enquiry report was never made available to the grievant to enable him meet the charges, and the Company also ignored their request for correction of certain omissions and errors in the report. But the Company argued that there was no evidence to suggest that the grievant was in any way prejudiced by the manner in which the panel conducted the enquiry, or that he was adversely affected because no representation of the Association accompanied the panel to either Rome or London.

A perusal of the said Clause 24 (d) of the parties' collective agreement would show that it was mandatory that a nominee of the Association be entitled to normal facilities and be eligible for duty travel allowance; or, if the nominee was not an employee of the Company, that he would be entitled to an air ticket and be afforded to any information in the possession of the Company's investigation team at all times. In this case at hand, the question for determination is the validity of the dismissal of the services of the grievant.

Undoubtedly, it was a matter of a quasi-judicial character. Moreover, minimum norms of justice and fairplay are not confined to proceedings in the corridors of Courts of law only. They extend to, as was said in relation to a right of hearing by the late and noble Lord of the Supreme Court of Pakistan, Justice M. Shahabuddin, who later on became the Chief Justice of Pakistan, in the case of Chief Commissioner, Karachi and another v. Mrs. Dinah Sohrab Katrak, P.L.D. 1959 S.C. (Pak.) 45, all proceedings, by whomsoever held, which may affect the person, the property or other rights of the parties concerned in the dispute. In the Privy Council case of Tumahole Bereng and others v. The King, P.L.D. 1949, P.C. 47, a person expecting to be called as an assessor, in good faith, went to see the physical features of the spot and material aspects of the case with one party in the absence of the other, and his subsequent participation in the proceedings was held to invalidate the trial. Lord MacDermott held that:

"As has been so often said, justice must not only be done but must manifestly be seen to be done. In their Lordships' opinion, Mr. Driver's conduct was such as to cause doubt in the public mind as to the complete impartiality of the proceedings in which he subsequently took part. As counsel for the Crown said when dealing with this aspect of the case, it has not been shown that what Mr. Driver did before the trial prejudiced the appellants. But it might well have been thought, when his activity became known, that he had come to Court with a biased mind in the sense of having a definite view as to what had occurred or as to the credibility of the witnesses whom he had observed or questioned. It might also have been thought that he had been told more than could be legally proved, or that his interrogation of an accomplice might have had an effect upon the story as told by that witness afterwards at the trial. All these, of course, is in the realm of conjecture, but where the irregularity complained of may reasonable engender suspicions of this nature, it cannot be left out of account, particularly when as here, the opinion of the officer could have been communicated to the Judge in private".

In my view, the contention of the Association has great force because it is obvious that the investigation by the management's panel of enquiry, without the inclusion and participation of the Association's nominee, certainly engendered suspicion in the minds of the grievant himself and the Association that he was not being meted out even-handed justice.

Turning now to the disciplinary procedure as a whole, the grievant was removed from flight duties for over four months, suspended on half pay for two months on the ground of poor airmanship, contrary to the provisions of Clause 23 (d) and (f) of the parties' collective agreement, demoted and eventually dismissed from service, on 28th April, 1995, with effect from 27th April, 1995, without being furnished with a copy of the precise charge or charges and also without being accorded or afforded an opportunity, or a reasonable opportunity, to defend himself; and all subsequent inquiries and all attracted punitive disciplinary measures or enhanced punishment. But the learned counsel for the Company, Mr. Kimani, relied on the contrary that the grievant was given every and ample opportunity to appear and defend himself, and no manner of injustice was done to him, and that the grievant has no legitimate ground for complaint.

In all the recognised elementary disciplinary rules applicable in departmental enquiries, the first requirement at the commencement of the enquiries is that in order to make aware the person affected, a preliminary enquiry should be conducted through an independent enquiry officer and then proper or specific charge or charges be framed against the accused officer. Clause 25 of the parties' collective agreement deals with disciplinary measures. It runs as follows:

"25. Disciplinary Measures.

Where the charge(s) against an employee is/are proved, the Company may, inter alia, impose the following measures:

- (a) Issue the employee with a warning letter.
- (b) Deferment, stoppage or withholding of an increment for 12 months.
- (c) Demotion in rank.
- (d) Suspension on half pay for one month.
- (e) Termination.
- (f) Dismissal."

The word "may" in between the words "Company" and "inter alia, impose", according to its natural meaning is a permissive or enabling word and imports discretion. Therefore, when the Management of the Company decided to institute enquiries against the grievant for the sake of justice, then it was also obligatory or mandatory on them to prepare precise or specific charge or charges against him, and the word "may" under reference should read as "shall" so as to include some other essential steps in the enquiries on the grounds of the principles of natural justice, which have been crystallised into four principles of justice, namely, (1) opportunity for both the contesting parties to be heard, (2) hearing before an impartial tribunal so that no man can be a judge of his own cause, (3) decisions made in good faith, and (4) an orderly cause of procedure. It would, therefore, be sufficient requirement of the principles of natural justice and the law if an employee is informed as to what is or are the charge or charges against him; that he is given a copy of the enquiry report and an opportunity to be present at the time when the witnesses for the employer are examined against him; that he is allowed to cross-examine the witnesses against him and to produce his own witnesses and to say whatever he wants to say in the light of the evidence against him, and that he should be heard in person before the impugned final order of dismissal or termination is passed.

I have carefully read and given anxious thought to the submissions of the parties, and the documents on the record, especially the enquiry proceedings, and I find that there was no proper enquiry and no precise or specific charge or charges were framed against the grievant; that every appeal lodged by the grievant attracted enhanced and punitive punishment without giving him an opportunity or sufficient opportunity to personally defend himself; that the Company relied heavily on past and stale service or employment record of the grievant to justify his dismissal; that the dismissal of the grievant was clearly discriminatory and selective as his First Officer, William P. Kehara, who has since been promoted to a Captain, and the crew, and Capt. Joseph D. Kimuthia, R.W.2, and Patrick G. Musyoki, R.W.3, who were faced with a similar problem on 3rd November, 1995, were not subjected to any disciplinary action and are still in employment; that the Company negligently omitted to maintain or rectify the defects in this particular plane or aircraft, which had a history of air unworthiness due to perennial fuel problem, in good and sound condition; that the entire evidence on the record does not cast any aspersion against the grievant, and in fact Capt. Kimuthia and Musyoki admitted that the decision to dismiss him was not the right one; that the unsubstantiated allegation of heavy fuel leakage or spillage, especially during the flight from London to Rome, was not supported by any evidence worth its name, etc. In its report, the Committee, recognised or acknowledged the fact that there might have been some "substance—in the allegations of defective procedure and denial of nature justice" to the grievant during the course of the enquiry, and the grievant was denied a copy or copies of "the record of the proceedings" and "additional comment by the Management on the appeal documentation" and "recommendation by the Committee to the Board of Directors", who eventually decided to dismiss the grievant from service. The Managing Director did not also afford the grievant an opportunity of being heard, or to defend himself before he was finally dismissed from service.

The maxim: audi alteram partem (no man shall be condemned unheard) is one of the golden threads of our jurisprudence, and is not confined to proceedings before the Courts of law only, but extends to all proceedings, by whomsoever held, which may affect the person or property or other rights of the parties concerned in the dispute. As a just decision in such controversies is possible only if the parties are given the opportunity of being heard, there can be, as regards the right of hearing, no difference between proceedings which are strictly judicial in nature and those which are in the nature of judicial proceedings though administrative in form. This rule applies even though there may be no positive words in the statute or legal document whereby the power is vested to take such proceedings, for, in such cases, this requirement is to be implied into it as the minimum requirement of fairness (see Halsbury's Laws of England, 3rd Edition, Vol. II, pp. 55-56 and Mrs. Dina Sohrab Katrak, P.L.D. 1959 S.C. (Pak.) p.45 at p.50 (supra)). The principle was restated in Grimshaw v. Dunbar (1953), 1.Q.B. 408 at page 416, by Jenkin, C.J. in the following words:

"A party to an action is prima facie entitled to have it heard in his presence; he is entitled to dispute his opponent's case and cross-examine his opponent's witnesses and he is entitled to call his own witnesses and give his own evidence—Prima facie that is his right, and if by mischance or accident a party is shut out from that right and an order is made in his absence, then common justice demands, so far as it can be given effect to without injustice to the other parties, but that that litigant—should be allowed to come—and present his case."

In this case, the Committee members, who made a recommendation to the Board of Directors, were also members of the said Board, which decided to dismiss the grievant without giving him an opportunity or a reasonable opportunity to state his case, or to be heard, before the final punishment of dismissal was passed. In Rex v. Sussex Justices, Ex Parte McCarthy, (1927), 2 K. B. 476, Swift J., observed that "nothing is to be done which creates even a suspicion that there has been an improper interference with the course of justice". It would be asking too much from a person placed in the position of the grievant not to have had a suspicion that he was not getting justice when the proceedings against him were conducted in that fashion. The panel of enquiry, Management of the Company, Committee and the Board of Directors broke or ignored every rule in the book.

For the foregoing reasons, I set aside the dismissal of the grievant, and in accordance with the powers conferred upon this Court by Section 15 (1) (i) of the Act, I Award and Order as follows:

- (a) That the grievant be reinstated forthwith and unconditionally to his job, with continuity of service and seniority, including promotion, with effect from 27th April, 1995.
- (b) That he be paid his full salary and be accorded all other benefits, allowances and privileges with effect from the said date.
- (c) That he be reimbursed any expenses incurred by him in revalidating his licence to-date.

Before I part with this case, I wish to observe that the grievant would appear to be a talented pilot who has made significant contribution to the success of the Company during its initial and most difficult stages of development, and I am inclined to believe that whatever may have been his shortcoming in the past, the suffering he has undergone during the period of absence since his suspension and subsequent wrongful dismissal must have had a chastening and beneficial effect on him. In the circumstances, I am confident that given the proper guidance, sympathy and encouragement by his superiors he would be able to make greater contribution to the success of the airline.

I have sought and considered the advice or opinion of both members of the Court in making this decision.

Dated and delivered at Nairobi this 29th day of November, 2002.

Judge.

GAZETTE NOTICE NO. 202

THE TRADE MARKS ACT

(Cap. 506)

NOTICE is given that any person who has grounds of opposition to the registration of any of the trade marks advertised herein according to the classes may, within sixty (60) days from the date of this Gazette, lodge notice of opposition on form TM. No. 6 (in duplicate) together with a fee of KSh. 1,500 (local application) or US$ 75 (foreign application).

Notice is also given that official objection will be taken under rule 21 (3) to all applications in which the specification claims all the goods included in any class unless the registrar is satisfied that the claim is justified by the use of the mark which the applicant has made, or intends to make if and when it is registered. Where an applicant considers that a claim in respect of all the goods included in a class can be justified it will save unnecessary delay in examining applications if a claim is filed simultaneously with the application, accompanied in appropriate cases by supporting documents.

The period for lodging notice of opposition may be extended by the registrar as he thinks fit and upon such terms as he may direct. Any request for such extension should be made to the registrar so as to reach him before the expiry of the period allowed.

Formal opposition should not be lodged until after reasonable notice has been given by letter to the applicant for registration so as to afford him any opportunity of withdrawing his application before the expense of preparing the notice of opposition is incurred. Failure to give such notice will be taken into account in considering any application by an opponent for an order for costs if the opposition is uncontested by the applicant.

Where it is stated in the advertisement of the applicant that the mark, upon its registration, is to be limited to certain colours, the colours are as far as possible, indicated in the accompanying representations of the mark in the usual heraldic manner.

Representations of the marks advertised herein can be seen at the Trade Marks Registry, Kenya Industrial Property Institute, Weights and Measures Building, Kapiti Road, off Mombasa Road, Nairobi.

Applications for registration in part A of the register are shown with the official number unaccompanied by any letter. Applications for part B are distinguished by the letter B prefixed to the official number.
