Contain leakages from maintenance, fueling and clearing of vehicles and construction equipment. Control asphalt preparation plants and transfer facilities. Identify point sources of pollution along the route and isolate them for professional handling.
Sand and soil degradation	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Contaminated soil should be removed from site and treated before disposal. Control dumping of oil residuals, asphalt and vehicle parts. Top soils from materials sites should be held on site for rehabilitation. Stabilize out sections, fills and quarries.
Topography, hydrology and drainage	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Identify key environmental and solid features likely to be affected by cutting. Integrate landscaping designs to moderate effects of cutting. Stabilize road side surface with structures. Vegetation should be left intact on stream flood plains for silt buffering. All surface runoff to be directed to existing natural drains.
Health, safety and security	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Contractor to prepare and implement health and safety measures, and present there in a health and safety plan. Sensitization on HIV/AIDS should be done in the workmen's camps. Install appropriate signage on

Quarrying and borrow pits	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Material sites exploitation be planned such that one is exhausted and rehabilitated before opening another section. Requested quarrying be formalized and benefits defined, no impacts to neighbours. Hold top soils and vegetation matter near the quarries for back filling and rehabilitation.
Waste Management (mainly soils, oil/grease, filters, camp waste, etc)	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Undertake an inventory of the types and qualities of waste generated. Access opportunities for reducing solid waste generation from operations. Determine appropriate management options for each type of waste. Excess soil should be disposed off-sites appropriately.
