Public Health (Organisation of Public Health Services).

Applied Scientific Research (Electronics; optics and acoustics; atomic research, etc.)

Social Science (Organisation of Social Security methods; organisation of Public Social Services).

Teaching (Organisation and methods of professional training).

2. The French Consul-General invites Nigerian students possessing the basic qualifications to derive benefit from these scholarships to apply to him in writing giving details of their qualifications, the course of study they wish to pursue and the extent of their knowledge of French. A good knowledge of French is a distinct advantage but applications will be considered from those who otherwise possess requisite basic qualifications but who may not possess a good knowledge of French, as it is intended to give in France to successful candidates who may be otherwise suitably qualified a three months intensive course in French prior to embarking upon their studies.

3. The scholarships consist of:—

(a) A period of study lasting six months, excluding the period that may be devoted to the preparatory study course of the French language;

(b) A monthly allocation of about £75.

(c) Free registration at the appropriate technical schools, institutes and laboratories;

(d) Reimbursement of expenses relating to travelling in France as approved by the Supervisor of Training;

(e) Payment of an indemnity of about £3 towards cost of typing the report or thesis which the student will be expected to present at the end of his training period;

(f) Free passage back to Nigeria.

4. Successful candidates will be expected to bear the cost of the journey to France, so only those who are prepared to accept this qualification should apply.

5. There is no fixed date for the commencement of the period of study.

6. Applicants, which can include organisations, commercial, Government, educational and otherwise who wish to sponsor qualified persons, should submit their applications in writing to: The Consul-General of France, P.O. Box 567, Lagos.
