Government Notice No. 2284

COUNCIL OF LEGAL EDUCATION INFORMATION CIRCULAR No. 2

EXEMPTIONS

1. Attention is drawn to the revised Legal Practitioners Qualification Regulations, 1963, which supersede the previous Regulations.

2. Sub-paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) of paragraph (1) of Regulation 1 of these revised Regulations are in substance identical with corresponding sub-paragraphs in the Regulations now superseded, and their effect was briefly summarised in sub-paragraphs (a) and (b) of paragraph 5 of the Council's Information Circular, dated 6th May, 1963. These sub-paragraphs deal with cases where there is total exemption from attendance at the Nigerian Law School prior to enrolment as a legal practitioner. These cases of total exemption remain unchanged.

3. The cases where exemption is granted subject to the satisfactory completion of a 3-months' practical course at the Nigerian Law School are, however, substantially modified. The object of these modifications is to avoid any possible hardship to students who, prior to 1st January, 1962, embarked on a course of legal training in Great Britain or Ireland, which, as the law then stood, might have qualified them for enrolment on their return to Nigeria. Accordingly, under sub-paragraph (d) of paragraph (1) of the revised Regulation 1 those who satisfy the Council that they comply with all the conditions summarised in the following paragraph will be exempt from 1-year's attendance at the Nigerian Law School provided that before the 31st December, 1965, they successfully complete a course there extending over not less than three months.

4. The conditions are :--

(1) That the student went to Great Britain or Ireland before 1st January, 1962.

(2) That before that date he had either (a) been admitted to an Inn of Court and begun study in Great Britain or Ireland for a bar examination or (b) begun articles of clerkship with a solicitor or Writer to the Signet in Great Britain or Ireland, or (c) been registered as a student of an approved University in Great Britain or Ireland and begun a course of study for a law degree.

(3) That he undertook a course of study in Great Britain or Ireland extending over not less than 2 years.

(4) That before the 31st July, 1965, he passed the Bar Final, Solicitor's Final, or final exam nation for a law degree of an approved University.

5. For the purpose of these conditions passing an examination means passing the whole of it. Passing conditionally or subject to reference in any subject is not included. On the other hand, if a final examination is passed after not less than 2 years study in Great Britain or Ireland it is irrelevant that call to the bar, admission as a solicitor or award of a law degree will not take place until further terms are kept, or a further period of clerkship, university residence, or course of study undertaken.

6. As a result of this extended concession nearly everyone who before the new legislation came into force, went to Great Britain or Ireland to obtain a professional qualification will be given a fair chance of qualifying with no additional burden. He will, it is true, have to take a 3-months' course at the Nigerian Law School, but this is no more onerous, and is distinctly more profitable to one proposing to practise in Nigeria, than if he had been called to the English bar and then taken the post-final course in England as most Nigerian students did. The one class of Nigerian students who might suffer some hardship are those, very few in number, who instead of taking a law degree or reading for the bar chose to obtain the qualifications of a solicitor. Owing to the fact that this takes a minimum of five years, such students may have left Nigeria prior to January 1962, but may have been unable to complete their training before the 31st July, 1965. If there prove to be any such students the Council would be prepared to consider exercising their power to grant individual exemptions. This power, formerly contained in sub-paragraph (f) of the Regulation is now in sub-paragraph (e) of the revised Regulation 1 (1) and, in such circumstances, is exercisable provided the application for enrolment is made before the end of 1967 (see Regulation 1 (3)). But this power will be exercised only if the Council are satisfied that the student concerned has acquired an adequate knowledge. It is not foreseen that this power will be exercised in any other circumstances.

7. These extended exemptions have been made to avoid possible hardship during the transitional period. It is for this reason that they are restricted to students who have obtained their basic academic or professional training in Great Britain or Ireland. Students who studied in Nigeria or countries other than Great Britain or Ireland would, under the pre-existing law, have had to obtain a professional qualification in Great Britain or Ireland (which would take a minimum of three further years) before they could be enrolled as legal practitioners in Nigeria.

The new legislation has therefore alleviated, instead of increasing, their burden, since, so long as their foreign qualifications are recognised as fulfilling the requirements of section 3 (b) of the Legal Education Act, they can become qualified for enrolment after a practical course at the Nigerian Law School of one year's duration only.

8. Having regard to these extended exemptions the narrower exemptions formerly contained in subparagraphs (e) and (g) of paragraph (1) of Regulation 1 have been deleted as no longer needed. 9. The revised exemptions have been promulgated after long and mature consideration by the Council and will on no account be extended further. The last 3-months' course will be that beginning in September 1965.

10. Any student claiming to be covered by these concessions must, when applying for registration for a 3-months' course at the Nigerian Law School, furnish the Council with sufficient evidence to enable the Council to be satisfied that the prescribed conditions are fulfilled.

11. The attention of all students is drawn to the fact that those attending any course (three-month or one-year) at the Nigerian Law School are set various tests and a final written examination. The satisfactory completion of the course requires the passing of these tests and examination. Students who fail satisfactorily to complete the tests set during the course will not be permitted to sit the final examination until they have done so. Any who fail the final examination will be required to re-sit it (in whole or in part) on a later occasion and a certificate entitling the student to apply for enrolment as a legal practitioner will not be issued until the whole examination has been passed.

12. Students are reminded of the information set out in paragraphs 2, 3, 4 and 6 of the Information Circular of the 6th May, 1963, regarding the Council's policy and practice concerning approved courses of study prior to attendance at the Nigerian Law School. The only circumstances in which, until further notice, students can embark on a course of study with the assurance that, on its successful completion, it will be approved for the purposes of sections 3 and 4 of the Legal Education Act and the Regulations are where the course will lead :—

(a) to entitlement to practise as a barrister, advocate, solicitor or Writer to the Signet in any part of Great Britain or Ireland; or

(b) to the award of a law degree of a recognised University in Nigeria or in Great Britain or of the Queen's University, Belfast, or Trinity College, Dublin, after legal studies extending over not less than three academic years.

In other circumstances the Council will consider each individual case on its merits. Examples of such circumstances are :---

(i) Where the course will lead to a professional qualification elsewhere than in Great Britain or Ireland; or to a law degree of a University other than one of those specified.

(ii) Where a law degree course will last less than three years.

(iii) Where the degree course is not exclusively a course of legal studies either because law is not studied during each of the three years or because a substantial part of the course is devoted to the study of other subjects.

Before embarking on such a course, students may apply to the Council for a ruling on whether and under what conditions the course will meet with the Council's approval. Applications should be made in writing giving full details of the course concerned and of the applicant's previous career, including previous courses of study, examination results, and any professional qualifications. Approval will not be given unless the Council are satisfied that, in the light of the applicant's previous career, the course concerned will provide him with a basis for the practice of law in Nigeria, after further training at the Nigerian Law School, which is substantially equivalent to either (a) or (b) above.

13. No more students can be accepted for registration for the 3-months' course which began on 8th October, 1963, or the one-year's course which began on 16th October, 1963.

By the Authority of the Council of Legal Education.
