3. POST No. 205-FO-27—FORESTRY OFFICERS (WILDLIFE MANAGEMENT).

Type of appointment.—One year, with probable extension to 5 years.

Duty station.—Garoua, Cameroon.

Closing date.—20th December, 1967.

Background information.—The Government of Cameroon and the United Nations Development Program (Special Fund) will establish at Garoua in Northern Cameroon a school to train senior, intermediate and subordinate personnel in wildlife management for French-speaking Africa. Courses will be given at two levels:

(a) a diploma course for in-service training for senior and intermediate students;

(b) a certificate course for the training of subordinate personnel.

It is expected that most of the students, who will come from throughout French-speaking Africa, will have already received basic forestry education, and the Garoua teaching will be in the form of a specialization course in wildlife management techniques. The school is expected to train between 50 and 70 students a year. Field training will take place in selected areas in Cameroon and Chad. Garoua is a pleasant town in Northern Cameroon with a well developed social life and many facilities.

DUTIES:

1. Forestry Officer (Wildlife Biology).—Under the general supervision of the Project Manager, to instruct in wildlife biology and natural history. To demonstrate collection and preservation of biological and pathological specimens and the recording of data, as well as handling and feeding of captive animals. To assist in all field instruction, the supervision of student activities (sport, etc.) and the maintenance of student and junior staff discipline.

2. Forestry Officer (Wildlife Management).—Under the general supervision of the Project Manager, to instruct the theory and techniques of wildlife management, including population dynamics and ecology, range management, establishment of management plans, and application of management measures. To instruct also in the development of tourism associated with wildlife and national parks, organization and practical planning of safari hunting, simple geography, map reading, surveying and demarcation of a reserve. To assist in all field instruction, the supervision of student activities (sport, etc.) and the maintenance of student and junior staff discipline.

3. Forestry Officer (Wildlife Management and Control).—Under the general supervision of the Project Manager, to instruct in the handling and maintenance of firearms, control of problem animals, including practical control experience. To instruct in public relations and extension as applied to wildlife conservation and management and in training techniques. To assist in all field instruction, the supervision of student activities (sport, etc.) and the maintenance of student and junior staff discipline.

4. Forestry Officer (Construction and Mechanics).—Under the general supervision of the Project Manager, to instruct in mechanics and construction work connected with wildlife conservation and management, including maintenance and repair of vehicles, construction of simple camps and buildings, road and track making, construction of bridges, use and maintenance of boats and other machinery as necessary, and the use and maintenance of radio. To assist in all field instruction, the supervision of student activities (sport, etc.) and the maintenance of student and junior staff discipline.

Qualifications.—University of equivalent degree in wildlife management or forestry, or an appropriate related subject with at least 5 years of pertinent experience. Experience in Africa desirable but not mandatory. In the case of the Forestry Officer (Construction and Mechanics) related technical training will be acceptable in lieu of the degree.

Languages.—Excellent knowledge of French essential.

Emoluments.—Salaries and benefits are liberal, commensurate with the responsibilities of the post and in line with the depth and breadth of training and experience.
