Government Notice No. 1050

UNESCO VACANCY

SPECIAL FUND APPOINTMENT

1. Title of post.—Chief Technical Adviser and Project Co-ordinator.

2. Location.—Indian Agricultural Research Institute, New Delhi.

3. Background.—In the wake of rapid expansion of agricultural education during the post-independence era, the need for enhancing the quality of higher agricultural education and research has assumed great importance. To achieve this aim, certain fields are being selected for concentrated study and a few higher institutions are being provided with the necessary financial assistance to augment their existing facilities so as to attract and retain scientists of high ability, who can be actively engaged in advanced teaching and research.

The combination of advanced teaching and research and contact with young and promising agricultural graduates will help to generate a proper climate for serious and sustained academic work by groups of teachers and scholars and promote the inter-communication necessary for national advancement in the modernisation of agriculture.

A number of production programmes, such as the intensive agricultural area programme, multiple cropping programme, etc., have been undertaken by the Government of India. These programmes make heavy demands for well-trained scientists and technicians competent to tackle the production problems that must be dealt with as India's agriculture modernises. The expansion of agricultural output necessitates an increase in livestock and poultry products, plant breeding and plant protection, land and water management and agricultural economics as subject matter disciplines.

In order to fulfil the above objectives, the Government of India plans to develop "centres of excellence" in selected fields of agricultural sciences so as to carry forward and maintain the agricultural revolution now under way. It is envisaged that the programme of post-graduate studies and research will, under the present UNDP/SF project IND/88, be limited to the following fields and centres :

(a) Soil and water management (studies of the effects of irrigation on soil salinity, alkalinity, drainage problems and of the development of improved irrigation practices) at the Punjab Agricultural University, Hissar, Punjab.

(b) Plant protection (studies of plant diseases, insect pests and weeds in new high-yielding varieties, etc. and of the measures required for the control) at the Mysore University of Agricultural Sciences, Hebbal.

(c) Dairy sciences (studies of the problems in dairy cattle breeding, nutrition, milk production, dairy product processing and of methods to develop efficient dairy production systems) at the National Dairy Research Institute, Karnal, Haryana.

(d) Poultry breeding and production (studies in poultry breeding, nutrition and pathology and intensive poultry production) at the National Veterinary Research Institute, Izatnagar.

(e) Agricultural economics (studies in agricultural economics and farm management to identify methods of optimising production at minimum cost and translation of biological information into economic data as a basis for development planning and policy formulation), at the Indian Agricultural Research Institute, New Delhi.

These centres are expected to be institutions that undertake the training of trainers, and focus attention on the curriculum and methodology of teaching and research, as well as the methodology of transmission of essential technical and scientific knowledge to intermediate and lower level personnel.

4. Duties.—It is considered necessary to have a Project Co-ordinator based at the Indian Agricultural Research Institute, New Delhi. The principal duties of the incumbent will be as follows :

(a) to act as Chief Technical Adviser to the Government of India, on agricultural education, research and planning, and as the Project Co-ordinator of the whole project ;

(b) to co-ordinate and supervise teaching, research and extension activities involved in the project ;

(c) to organize and supervise training programmes and seminars for research workers, especially in those disciplines and subject matter studies selected for the project ;

(d) to advise on the curricula and syllabi in accordance with the objectives of the project ;

(e) to advise and assist the Directors of the five Institutes concerned in the formation of a team of national staff in each discipline, engaged in post-graduate teaching and research, and in the stimulation of new ideas and techniques of teaching ;

(f) to assist the national staff in the planning and execution of programmes dealing with proper dissemination of agricultural research results for the amelioration of farm practices and management;

(g) to help in the preparation/supervision of equipment lists needed for the project.

5. Qualifications.—The candidate should have a doctorate degree in agricultural education and/or agricultural economics, with considerable experience in research and teaching at the post-graduate level. He should have administrative experience and be well conversant with the planning of agricultural education and research programmes.

6. Language.—Fluent English.

7. Duration of appointment.—Two years, starting October 1969.

8. International salary and allowances.—(Net of national income tax—payable partly in the currency of the staff member's home or of the duty station).

Government Notice No. 1051

UNESCO VACANCY

SPECIAL FUND APPOINTMENT

1. Title of post.—Specialist in Algebra.

2. Location.—Faculty of Science, University of Islamabad, Pakistan

3. Background.—(1) Pakistan, with more than 100 million population, and a rather rapid recent growth in industrial enterprises, has given much attention to development of technical and science education, particularly at the technician and undergraduate college and university levels. There are eleven universities, including 3 in engineering and 2 in agriculture, 200 Arts and Science degree colleges, 50 professional schools, 128 teacher-training schools and 18 teacher-training colleges. The total number of students is approximately 25,000 in the universities 300,000 in the colleges and 30,000 in teacher-training institutions.

(2) At the university graduate level, however, only relatively few programmes have been developed, particularly in science and engineering, with the result that hundreds of Pakistanis now go abroad for advanced studies and many do not return. In 1966 there were 3,000 students enrolled in graduate courses in science in Pakistan universities.

(3) Pakistan has a rather extensive pattern of research institutes which in all, require the services of some 10,000 scientists with high qualifications. The Pakistan Council for Scientific and Industrial Research, and the Pakistan Atomic Energy Commission employ 700 and 500 scientists respectively in various laboratories in East and West Pakistan. Twelve other Research Councils and Institutes have been established covering fields of agriculture, medicine, health irrigation and flood control, housing meteorology, forestry, jute, cotton and other fields.

(4) The need for scientific personnel mentioned above and the further need for improvement of science teaching faculties at all levels, coupled with the difficulty of congregating a sufficiently large number of high-level scientists at one institution, led the Government of Pakistan to establish, in 1966, the University of Islamabad as an autonomous university devoted entirely to science education and research at the graduate level. It is planned by this means to attract the best Pakistani scholars in the country or abroad to form a high-level group of scientists who can establish a graduate university in science equal to any in the world. It is also hoped to reverse the "brain drain" of Pakistani scholars emigrating abroad. Some thirty talented scholars have already returned to take up posts and more are under recruitment.

(5) A site of 1,500 acres near Islamabad was acquired, building plans approved and construction began in 1968. As an interim measure, temporary buildings in Satellite Town, between Islamabad and Rawalpindi, have been utilized to initiate an instruction programme which began in 1967. Courses in mathematics, theoretical physics and chemistry are given, in the 1968-69 academic year, to approximately 60 students.

(6) From its inception the University has had counsel and assistance from the Ford Foundation through the Indiana University and anticipates continued assistance for the next several years.

(7) To further develop and equip the University the Government has requested the assistance of the UNDP (Special Fund).

(8) The request of the Government anticipates a first phase of the project for a duration of three years, to be followed by a second phase which will be elaborated at a later date.

(9) The objective of the project is to reinforce the science teaching and research staff in those areas of specialization where fully qualified national staff is not available, to provide further training of national staff and to better equip laboratories for teaching and research.

(10) When fully developed the University will be composed of six Institutes, namely mathematics, physics, chemistry, biology, earth sciences and social sciences and will be devoted entirely to post-graduate education and research, offering work toward M.Sc., M.Phil. and Ph.D. degrees, and post-doctoral research. It is expected that about 50 science graduates from other universities will be admitted annually to each Institute. Since work leading to the Ph.D. is expected to require five or six years, depending upon previous preparation, the enrolment in each Institute is estimated to reach 150 in 1975 and 250-300 in 1980.

(11) The UNDP (Special Fund) is requested to supply 12 internationally recruited visiting professors in different specialties for one year each, a number of fellowships of 2 or 3 years duration for further training of national staff, equipment for laboratories in physics, chemistry, biology, earth sciences and workshop, and library books, journals and documents for a total amounting to approximately $1 million. Major laboratory equipment items would include a liquid helium plant, liquid nitrogen plant, X-ray diffraction units, electron microscope, mass spectrometer, nuclear magnetic resonance units, high vacuum equipment, infrared and ultraviolet spectrometer, X-ray densitometers, oscilloscopes, calculating machines, etc.

4. Functions.—The holder of the present post will:

- give advanced lectures and courses for post graduate students preparing the doctorate degree;
- conduct seminars and colloquiums on specialised topics in his field;
- guide Ph.D. candidates in their research work;
- assist in the development of academic work;
- advise on the setting up of library services;
- help in the preparation of candidates to the fellowship awarded by Unesco.

5. Qualifications.—A high university degree; several years' experience in teaching and organizing research as a professor in a recognized university. Some experience in a newly established university or in a developing country would be an asset.

6. Language requirements.—Excellent English essential.

7. Duration of appointment.—1 year, starting October 1969.

8. International salary and allowances.—(Net of national income tax—payable partly in the currency of the staff member's home or of the duty station)

Base salary per annum: equivalent to .. .. .	Gross	$19,120

Government Notice No. 1052

UNESCO VACANCY

SPECIAL FUND APPOINTMENT

1. Title of post.—Specialist in Statistics.

2. Location.—Faculty of Science, Havana University, Cuba.

3. Background.—(1) The purpose of the project is to assist the Government in strengthening the teaching at the Biology and Biochemistry Schools of the Science Faculty, University of Havana, and in developing research which is considered to have a direct bearing on critical areas of the country's economic development.

(2) In recent years, a planned drive towards diversification of agricultural crops, improvement of livestock and development of agro-industries has been initiated in Cuba. For the continuous implementation of this policy, large numbers of highly qualified technical and scientific manpower will be needed not only for operational field posts in the Government industry, but also to fill teaching and research positions. The Faculty of Science of the University of Havana is the main source of this type of personnel.

(3) The project activities are expected to result in up-graded practice-oriented undergraduate training in biology and biochemistry at the University of Havana. Moreover, the basis will be laid for improved post-graduate training and advanced research in the same fields. During the project period, enrolment at the two schools is expected to increase.

The number of staff and students in 1969-70 are the following :

	Staff	Students
Mathematics .. ..	18	314
Physics .. ..	39	402
Chemistry .. ..	30	615
Biology .. ..	24	728
Biochemistry .. ..	16	285
Geography .. ..	19	98

(4) Project activities will consist of the following :

(a) the undergraduate curricula at the Schools of Biology and Biochemistry will be reformed. Their level will be raised according to modern standards to develop inter alia the students' aptitude for solving concrete problems. It is anticipated that the first months of the project will be needed to plan the necessary changes which will be implemented subsequently.

(b) While post-graduate training, as such, will not be part of the project, the project personnel will advise the University on the development of post-graduate training facilities in biology and biochemistry for two categories of scientific personnel, viz :

(i) Teaching staff at the secondary and higher levels and

(ii) Research staff to participate in polyvalent research groups that are established ad hoc for specific studies in the country's several research institutes. An important part of this post-graduate training will not, under the Government's plans, take the form of formal courses at the University, but will consist of work in an appropriate research institute under the supervision of the Faculty of Science;

(c) Research facilities will be developed as a necessary complement to improved teaching. It will be similarly practice-oriented.

(5) Following the implementation of the major part of the above activities during the first three years of the project, responsibility for the continuation of the work will be transferred to the national staff during the fourth and final year.

(6) The Government will provide :

(a) Counterpart professional staff;

(b) Administrative and other non-professional staff;

(c) All necessary operating costs of the schools involved in the project;

(d) Equipment and supplies as required;

(e) The Faculty buildings and the laboratories related to the project; and

(f) All support services.

In fact, large laboratories for chemistry, biology and biochemistry are already equipped with all the necessary facilities within the University. In addition, small units are established in the Botanical Gardens and in the farms belonging to the University.

The value of the Government's participation in the project has been estimated at the equivalent of $3,560,000 of which approximately $2,613,000 represent expenditures arising directly from the project.

(7) To assist in the execution of the project, Unesco, in its capacity as Participating and Executing Agency for the UNDP (Special Fund), has agreed to provide :

(a) Under the expert component of the project :

(i) The services of a Project Manager specializing in biology;

(ii) Experts in the fields of physiology, genetics, entomology, phytonematology; biochemistry, organic physical chemistry, toxicology, food science, statistics, and numerical analysis and computation;

(b) Under the training component of the project, fifteen fellowships totalling fifteen man-years to train counterpart personnel in all aspects of the programme;

(c) Under the equipment component of the project (for a total amount of $265,000) :

(i) Selected apparatus and instrumentation for biochemical, biological physico-chemical, food science and toxicological instruction, analysis and research training;

(ii) Books and publications related to the fields of instruction.

4. Functions.—The specialist will co-operate with the other experts, and the Cuban scientists and help in designing and interpretation of experiments in the field of biological research. He may be called upon to organize seminars and give a few lectures. He will help in training counterpart personnel and in selecting the candidates for the fellowships in his speciality. He will also advise on books and equipment to be purchased.

5. Qualifications.—A university degree equivalent to a Doctorate in Mathematics with specialization in Statistics. Several years experience in research and teaching at university level.

6. Language requirements.—English and/or Spanish, with working knowledge of the other.

7. Duration of appointment.—Two years, starting October 1969.

8. International salary and allowances.—(Net of national income tax—payable partly in the currency of the staff member's home or of the duty station).

In addition, Unesco contributes towards the cost of installation at the duty station, the education of dependent children, and the medical expenses of the staff member. On separation from Unesco, a repatriation grant is paid.

9. Method of application.—Applications have to be made on special Curriculum Vitae forms, which can be obtained, in person or by post, from the Secretary, Nigerian National Commission for Unesco, Federal Ministry of Education, Senate Buildings, Lagos.

All applications for Curriculum Vitae forms should state—

(a) the particular advertisement for which the forms are wanted—please quote reference number where supplied;

(b) very brief (2 or 3 lines) summary of applicant's qualifications for the post in terms of:—

(i) basic academic or professional qualifications.

(ii) number of years post-qualification experience.

(iii) Language spoken.

Please enclose a stamped addressed envelope (4" x 9").

10. Closing date.—Filled C.V. Forms should be returned to reach the Secretary, Nigerian National Commission for Unesco not later than 31st July, 1969.

Government Notice No. 1053

UNESCO VACANCY

SPECIAL FUND APPOINTMENT

1. Title of post.—Specialist in Applied Entomology.

2. Location.—Faculty of Science, Havana University, Cuba.

3. Background.—(1) The purpose of the project is to assist the Government in strengthening the teaching at the Biology and Biochemistry Schools of the Science Faculty, University of Havana, and in developing research which is considered to have a direct bearing on critical areas of the country's economic development.

(2) In recent years, a planned drive towards diversification of agricultural crops, improvement of livestock and development of agro-industries has been initiated in Cuba. For the continuous implementation of this policy, large numbers of highly qualified technical and scientific manpower will be needed not only for operational field posts in the Government industries, but also to fill teaching and research positions. The Faculty of Science of the University of Havana is the main source of this type of personnel.

(3) The project activities are expected to result in up-graded practice-oriented undergraduate training in biology and biochemistry at the University of Havana. Moreover, the basis will be laid for improved post-graduate training and advanced research in the same fields. During the project period, enrolment at the two schools is expected to increase.

The number of staff and students in 1969-70 are the following:

	Staff	Students
Mathematics ..	18	314
Physics ..	39	402
Chemistry ..	30	615
Biology ..	24	726
Biochemistry ..	16	285
Geography ..	19	98

(4) Project activities will consist of the following:

(a) the undergraduate curricula at the Schools of Biology and Biochemistry will be reformed. Their level will be raised according to modern standards to develop inter alia the students' aptitude for solving concrete problems. It is anticipated that the first months of the project will be needed to plan the necessary changes which will be implemented subsequently;

(b) While post-graduate training, as such, will not be part of the project, the project personnel will advise the University on the development of post-graduate training facilities in biology and biochemistry for two categories of scientific personnel, viz:

(i) Teaching staff at the secondary and higher levels, and

(ii) Research staff to participate in polyvalent research groups that are established ad hoc for specific studies in the country's several research institutes. An important part of this post-graduate training will not, under the Government's plans, take the form of formal courses at the University, but will consist of work in an appropriate research institute under the supervision of the Faculty of Science;

(c) Research facilities will be developed as a necessary complement to improved teaching. It will be similarly practice-oriented.

(5) Following the implementation of the major part of the above activities during the first three years of the project, responsibility for the continuation of the work will be transferred to the national staff during the fourth and final year.

(6) The Government will provide:

(a) Counterpart professional staff;

(b) Administrative and other non-professional staff;

(c) All necessary operating costs of the schools involved in the project;

(d) Equipment and supplies as required;

(e) The Faculty buildings and the laboratories related to the project; and

(f) All support services.

In fact, large laboratories for chemistry, biology and biochemistry are already equipped with all the necessary facilities within the University. In addition, small units are established in the Botanical Gardens and in the farms belonging to the University.

(ii) Books and publications related to the fields of instruction.

4. Functions.—The expert will advise the staff and advanced students on the orientation of their research on pests which attack tropical plants with due consideration to physiology of pests. He may be called to organize seminars and give a few lectures. He will help in training counterpart personnel and in selecting the candidates for the fellowships in his speciality. He will also advise on equipment to be purchased.

5. Qualifications.—A university degree equivalent to a doctorate. Experience in teaching and research at the university level with good organizing ability.

Government Notice No. 1057

UNESCO VACANCY

SPECIAL FUND APPOINTMENT

1. Title of post.—Expert in Economic Geology.

2. Location.—Centre for Applied Geology Jeddah, Saudi Arabia.

3. Background and functions.—To broaden the base of its oil-dependent economy, the Saudi Arabian Government is making concentrated efforts in other fields such as mineral exploration which offers a particularly realistic potential because of the largely unexplored Precambrian Arabian Shield where favourable conditions for ore concurrences are already known to exist. An important objective of the Kingdom's planning is the improvement of education in order that Saudi nationals may acquire the skills needed to develop the material resources of the region and effect the necessary development of the country.

Geology is currently taught at undergraduate level at the University. However, Saudi graduates in geology generally lack field experience under the particular conditions which apply in the programme of exploration and development currently carried out in the country.

The purpose of the project is to assist the Government in creating and organizing a post-graduate institution at Jeddah to train Saudi Arabian geologists in modern methods of geological mapping and mineral exploration. During the first phase of the programme of instruction and practice the students will receive education chiefly in those disciplines (structural geology, stratigraphy, photogeology, mineralogy, petrology) essential for survey, standard geological mapping and practical training in the field. The second phase will be devoted to the principles, application and interpretation of the broad spectrum of modern mineral exploration techniques. In both phases roughly as much time will be spent in class room activities in Jeddah as in actual field research work on the Precambrian Shield.

An in-service training programme for semi-professionals will also be undertaken to provide for technical support personnel qualified to service and maintain instruments and equipment and to act in the field as operators, samplers and general field assistants to the more highly qualified geologists.

The international project personnel will consist of a Chief of Project, and 6 experts in: (a) Mineralogy, petrology, (b) Structural and photo geology, (c) Economic geology, (d) Geochemistry, (e) Geophysics and (f) Training of Technicians.

Simultaneously with the field research activities and their training functions the international experts will assist, where applicable, in the installation of laboratory and teaching equipment in their relevant fields.

UNESCO VACANCY

SPECIAL FUND APPOINTMENT

1. Title of post.—Expert in Applied Geophysics.

2. Location.—Centre for Applied Geology, Jeddah, Saudi Arabia.

3. Background and functions.—To broaden the base of its oil-dependent economy, the Saudi Arabian Government is making concentrated efforts in other fields such as mineral exploration which offers a particularly realistic potential because of the largely unexplored Precambrian Arabian Shield where favourable conditions for ore concurrences are already known to exist. An important objective of the kingdom's planning is the improvement of education in order that Saudi nationals may acquire the skills needed to develop the material resources of the region and effect the necessary development of the country.

Geology is currently taught at undergraduate level at the University. However, Saudi graduates in geology generally lack field experience under the particular conditions which apply in the programme of exploration and development currently carried out in the country.

The purpose of the project is to assist the Government in creating and organising a post-graduate institution at Jeddah to train Saudi Arabian geologists in modern methods of geological mapping and mineral exploration. During the first phase of the programme of instruction and practice the students will receive education chiefly in those disciplines (structural geology, stratigraphy, photogeology, mineralogy, petrology) essential for survey, standard geological mapping and practical training in the field. The second phase will be devoted to the principles, application and interpretation of the broad spectrum of modern mineral exploration techniques. In both phases roughly as much time will be spent in class room activities in Jeddah as in actual field research work on the Precambrian Shield.

An in-service training programme for semi-professionals will also be undertaken to provide for technical support personnel qualified to service and maintain instruments and equipment and to act in the field as operators, samplers and general field assistants to the more highly qualified geologists.
