Duration.—12 months.

Starting date.—1st March, 1973.

Background.—This project is to give further consideration to the problem of infestation by the spider mite Oligonychus milleri, a pest presently endangering plantations of Pinus caribaea in Jamaica by defoliation; to investigate possibilities and recommend effective measures for biological control.

Duties.—In close collaboration with the Project Forestry Development and Watershed Management in the Upland Region its counterpart agency and the Commonwealth Institute of Biological Control, the Acarologist will:

Assess the nature and extent of damage caused by Oligonychus milleri, to pine plantations in Jamaica.

Undertake research by executing trials to determine the effect of varying levels of mite populations on growth rate in nurseries and on growth rate in the field, including the study of population dynamics of O. milleri and its natural enemies, and possibilities of biological control.

Coincidental with the research on O. milleri attention will be paid to other pests or potential pests of P. caribaea, and their natural enemies in Jamaica.

Formulate recommendations for the introduction of effective measures for the biological control or elimination of the pest.

Prepare periodic and final reports on the work undertaken.

Qualifications.—University degree in natural science, specialized in acarology.

Experience.—Incumbent must have 5 years of relevant experience preferably in research on and biological control of mite infestation.

Language.—English essential.

Emoluments.—Salaries and benefits are liberal, commensurate with the responsibilities of the post and in line with the depth and breadth of training and experience.

Method of application.—Applications to reach Central Recruitment (Professional), Personnel Division, FAO, via delle Terme di Caracalla, 00100-Rome, Italy, by 14th February, 1973. Quote: 940-FOD-92.
