Government Notice No. 1417

FOOD AND AGRICULTURE ORGANIZATION OF THE UNITED NATIONS
VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

Post title (Post No., Project)—DESIGN ENGINEER
Jute Seed, Research and Production BGD/74/018.

Duration of post.—12 months (extendable).

Duty station.—Decca, Bangladesh

No.—AGO/AGS/404

Date issued.—1st October, 1976.

Closing date.—26th November, 1976.

Starting date.—1st January, 1977.

Background.—Jute plays an important role in both the internal and external economy of Bangladesh. It is the second most important crop after rice. From 1966 to 1973, jute was planted on the average of about 2.2 million acres out of a total of 22.4 million acres of cultivated land in the country. The first Five-Year Plan (1973/74-1977/78) puts particular emphasis on the expansion of jute production. It adopts a strategy of increasing per acre yield of jute and reducing cost per unit of product while keeping the jute acreage stable at 2.2 million acres, as a corollary to the Government's strategy by using the remaining acres to achieve self-sufficiency in rice. The target in jute production is hoped to be achieved by bringing 1.7 million acres of the better land under the Intensive Jute Cultivation Scheme (IJCS) of the Ministry of Agriculture, whereby these areas will receive a package on inputs including improved seeds, chemical fertilizer, improved cultural practices and plant protection.

World consumption of jute and jute products is expected to increase annually by one per cent up to 1980 with most of the demand growth taking place in developing countries in Asia. The demand of jute is expected to decline in developing countries, particularly Western Europe. There is little possibility in the near future for Bangladesh finding other export commodities to replace jute and jute products.

ASDB have approved technical assistance to this project as a joint ASDB/FAO activity, to the amount of US $9.55 million. UNDP financing has been sought to provide assistance in the fields of jute research and farm development and management. The UNDP project will complement the ASDB loan and is aimed at increasing jute yield per acre and raising the quality of jute so as to obtain a higher return from jute and to leave more acreage available for rice production. It will strengthen all aspects of jute production research in Bangladesh, develop a high yielding good quality jute variety with added desirable characters such as pest and disease resistance and a short growing season, assist in farm development at the central research station and sub-stations and provide fellowships for jute research staff in the various disciplines of jute production.

Duties.—The expert will :

1. Examine equipment presently utilised for sowing and weeding of jute crops ;

2. Identify shortcomings and ascertain the reaction of farmers ;

3. Develop one or more designs of suitable equipment for sowing and row-weeding of jute on the different soil types found in the predominantly jute growing areas in Bangladesh, taking into account both animal drawn and hand-operated designs.

Qualifications.—A university degree in agricultural engineering.

Experience.—Seven years' experience in design of agricultural equipment, particularly for jute production.

Language.—Full working knowledge of English.

Emoluments.—Salaries and benefits are liberal, commensurate with the responsibilities of the post and in line with the depth and breadth of training and experience.

Candidates may be requested to provide satisfactory evidence of the educational qualifications shown in their applications. Appointments to vacant positions may depend upon the candidate selected providing such evidence for inclusion in their official personnel file.

Applications to reach the Manpower Planning Unit, FAO, via delle Terme di Caracalla, 00100-Rome, Italy, by : 26-11-76.

Post title (Post No., Project).—PLANT BREEDER, Jute Seed, Research and Production BGD/74/018.

Vacancy Announcement No.—AGO/AGP/405.

Date issued.—1st October, 1976.

Closing date.—26th November, 1976.

Duty station.—Dacca, Bangladesh.

Duration.—12 months (extendable).

Starting date.—1st January, 1977.

Background.—Jute plays an important role in both the internal and external economy of Bangladesh. It is the second most important crop after rice. From 1966 to 1973, jute was planted on the average of about 2.2 million acres out of a total of 22.4 million acres of cultivated land in the country. The first Five-Year Plan (1973-4/1977-8) puts particular emphasis on the expansion of jute production. It adopts a strategy of increasing per acre yield of jute and reducing cost per unit of product while keeping the jute acreage stable at 2.2 million acres, as a corollary to the Government's strategy by using the remaining acres to achieve self-sufficiency in rice. The target in jute production is hoped to be achieved by bringing 1.7 million acres of the better land under the Intensive Jute Cultivation Scheme (IJCS) of the Ministry of Agriculture, whereby these areas will receive a package on inputs including improved seeds, chemical fertilizer, improved cultural practices and plant protection.

World consumption of jute and jute products is expected to increase annually by one per cent up to 1980 with most of the demand growth taking place in developing countries in Asia. The demand of jute is expected to decline in developing countries, particularly Western Europe. There is little possibility in the near future for Bangladesh finding other export commodities to replace jute and jute products.

ASDB have approved technical assistance to this project as a joint ASDB/FAO activity, to the amount of US $9.5 million. UNDP financing has been sought to provide assistance in the fields of jute research and farm development and management. The UNDP project will complement the ASDB loan and is aimed at increasing jute yield per acre and raising the quality of jute so as to obtain a higher return from jute and to leave more acreage available for rice production. It will strengthen all aspects of jute production research in Bangladesh, develop a high yield good quality jute variety with added desirable characters such as pest and disease resistance and a short growing season, assist in farm development at the central research station and sub-stations and provide fellowships for jute research staff in the various disciplines of jute production.

Duties.—The expert will :

1. Be primarily concerned with assisting in the introduction and building up of a jute germplasm collection, and in the evaluation of introduced and currently available varieties.

2. Assist in making selections, initiating breeding programmes and co-ordinating varietal improvement work being carried out by research organisations in Bangladesh.

3. Co-ordinate the work of the consulting team after the departure of the Senior Agricultural Research Planner.

Qualifications.—A university degree in agriculture with post-graduate training in plant breeding.

Experience.—Seven years' experience in Plant Breeding, preferably on jute.

Language.—Full working knowledge of English.

Emoluments.—Salaries and benefits are liberal, commensurate with the responsibilities of the post and in line with the depth and breadth of training and experience.

Candidates may be requested to provide satisfactory evidence of the educational qualifications shown in their applications. Appointments to vacant positions may depend upon the candidate selected providing such evidence for inclusion in their official personnel file.

Method of application.—Applications to reach the Manpower Planning Unit, FAO, via delle Terme di Caracalla, 00100-Rome, Italy, by 26th November, 1976. Quote : AGO/AGP/405.
