(e) electrical trades work (house wiring, household appliances repairs, small electrical tool repairs, small switchboard installations) ;

(f) auto repairs (non-specialised general purpose automobile and agricultural machinery repairs, including tyres and tubes, batteries, body work, oiling, greasing and minor electrical jobs).

The contents of each trade are purposely not highly specialised and have at present been so grouped as to make the occupations viable in rural areas, i.e. a trainee on completion of training can find adequate work in rural areas. Arrangements exist for extending credit and assisting ex-trainees in establishing their own enterprises in rural areas. Selected rural localities which have growth potential are planned to have workshop clusters in which groups of such ex-trainees are supposed to find a better opportunity for establishing such enterprises and inter-service each other's needs. There will be 4-5 UN Volunteers in specific rural trades, one of whom is in position and three already selected.

General.—The expert will be a member of a team of international experts assigned to the Organisation of Non-Farm Activities (ONFA) of the Ministry of Co-operation and Rural Affairs, which aims at developing productive activities in the rural non-farm sector such as in rural industries and crafts, rural construction and rural services. The expert will examine, study and advise on policies, programmes, institutions, syllabi and activities in the field of vocational training required for rural areas, and co-ordinate and supervise the work of UN Volunteers in this field.

Specific.—Under the general supervision of the Chief Technical Adviser, the expert will advise on and carry out the following activities, where appropriate with the help of UN Volunteers :

(a) review the vocational training needs of rural areas, and the vocational training institutions and programmes already established by ONFA with a view to assessing the matching of needs with activities;

(b) planning for an adequate range of vocational training activities to meet requirements. This will include :

selection of trades and their contents ;

determining types of training activities such as basic training, upgrading training and instructor training ;

planning the organisation of these training activities in stationary and mobile units ;

(c) planning the training contents (shop work and related instruction), physical facilities, standards of entry of trainees, qualifications of instructors, financial, material and manpower resources required for the programme.

The expert will be required to co-ordinate these policies and activities with related vocational training programmes, particularly those under project IRA/72/024 and advise on the development of modular training programmes, and use of modern audio-visual training aids to the extent possible in this programme.

Qualifications required.—(1) A degree or diploma in one of the branches of technology or engineering such as mechanical, electrical, civil, etc.

2. Thorough familiarity with all types of vocational training systems and programmes ; preference will be given to those who have specific experience in developing countries.

3. Experience in planning, development and supervision of vocational training programmes in the fields of metal work, carpentry and joinery, electrical work, automotive work, etc.

4. Willingness to travel frequently in rural areas.

Language.—A good knowledge of English. Acquaintance with languages such as Farsi, Urdu, Arabic, etc. would be helpful.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF VACANCY—

ANG/WMO/3*

Country.—Angola.

Title of post.—Expert in networks (OPAS).

Duration.—One year.

When required.—As soon as possible.

Duty station.—Luanda, with frequent travel in the country.

Duties.—The expert will be a member of the team of internationally recruited experts assisting the Government of Angola in the implementation of the project : "Strengthening of the National Meteorological Service". Specifically he will carry out the following duties :

(a) to survey the existing facilities and networks of meteorological observing stations for which the Service is responsible ;

(b) to participate actively in the operation of the meteorological instruments laboratory, workshop and store-room ;

(c) to establish an effective system of inspection of the network of meteorological observing stations ;

(d) to participate in and direct the installation of stations as required in order to conform to WMO regulations.

Qualifications.—Candidates must hold a diploma from a recognized technical institution. They should have at least five years' recent experience in the establishment and operation of a national network of meteorological observing stations and in the operation of meteorological instruments laboratory and workshop.

Languages requirements.—Portuguese or Spanish or French.

Additional information.—The officer will perform duties of an operational nature as defined in this vacancy notice. He will be a direct employee of the Government of Angola which will pay him the salary and other emoluments which would be received by one of its own personnel performing similar duties. In addition, the World Meteorological Organization will supplement his salary and other allowances so that his total emoluments (from the Government and the World Meteorological Organization) are as mentioned below which are equivalent to what would be paid to an expert performing comparable duties under the World Meteorological Organization's Technical Assistance Programme. The Officer will have the status of an official of the Government but not of a staff member of the World Meteorological Organization.

Initial salary.—Equivalent of net US $20,209.10 per annum (expert without dependants) and of net US $21,755.80 per annum (expert with dependants), plus allowances.

Exemption from taxation in respect of salary and allowances is the same as that enjoyed by officials of the United Nations.

Allowances :

1. Post adjustment.—This adjustment which varies according to the cost of living is at present for Luanda the equivalent of US $3,556 per annum (expert without dependants) and of US $3,828 per annum (expert with dependants).

2. Assignment allowance.—Equivalent of US $600 per annum (expert without dependants) and of US $2,000 per annum (expert with dependants).

3. Dependency allowance.—Equivalent of US $450 per annum is payable, under certain conditions, for each dependent child.

4. Education grant.—A grant up to a maximum of the equivalent of US $2,250 per annum is payable, under certain conditions, in respect of each dependant child in full time attendance at an educational institution.

5. Other main benefits in accordance with Staff Rules.—Group Life Insurance Plan (compulsory) ; medical scheme compulsory for experts and optional for dependants ; annual home and sick leave ; travel expenses on appointment, repatriation and home leave ; installation and repatriation grant ; shipment of personal effects and household goods. Under certain conditions, these expenses and grants take account of recognized dependants.

Applications.—Applications should be submitted on UN or WMO Personal History Forms and sent to the Secretary-General, World Meteorological Organization, Case Postale No. 5, CH-1211 Geneva 20, Switzerland.

Applications submitted by telegramme will be considered.

Closing date.—Applications should reach the Secretariat not later than 15th June, 1977.

ANNEX

STRENGTHENING OF THE NATIONAL METEOROLOGICAL SERVICE OF ANGOLA

With the departure of a large proportion of its technical personnel—the Meteorological Service of Angola is left with a well-developed technical infrastructure but without the necessary staff.

The Government has therefore launched a vast programme aimed at :

maintaining the continuity in the supply of information for operational purposes of aviation, both for internal and international flights ;

maintaining the installations for observing the weather and the associated telecommunications facilities in good operational condition ;

starting as soon as possible an extensive programme of training local meteorological personnel at all levels ;

laying down the basis to adapt in the future the structure of the Service to the changing needs of principal users of meteorological information and particularly for the applications of meteorology to agriculture, cattle-raising and management of water resources.

For the implementation of the first two-year phase of this programme the Government of Angola will receive external assistance both from UNDP and under bilateral arrangements. UNDP will provide seven experts (aeronautical forecasting, networks, electronic equipment and meteorological training), fellowships for studies abroad and equipment and spare parts. Within the bilateral component the USSR will provide five meteorologists—three of whom will be aeronautical forecasters—and a number of longterm fellowships for university studies in the USSR.

ANNEX TO NER/WMO/1

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Programme for strengthening the Agrometeorological and Hydrological Services of the Sahelian countries and establishment of a Centre for training and applications of agrometeorology/operational hydrology.

The strengthening of national services and the setting up of the Centre are among the medium-term and long-term measures intended to minimize the effects of climatological disasters and to improve the living conditions of the inhabitants of this area. The seven countries affected by the drought have set up a joint body in order to combine their efforts : the Permanent Inter-State Committee for Drought Control in the Sahel (CILSS). These countries are : the Gambia, Upper Volta, Mali, Mauritania, Niger, Senegal and Chad.

The present Programme consists of :

Seven national projects intended to develop the agrometeorological and hydrological observational networks, to strengthen services for data processing and providing users with short-term forecasts, and lastly, the training of technical personnel required for these tasks ;

A regional Centre to provide training for these personnel. This Centre will subsequently have personnel and equipment for data processing on a regional basis.

Each national project comprises :

the services of an expert responsible for supervising meteorological and agrometeorological activities undertaken in the country ;

the supply of equipment for strengthening the networks ;

granting fellowships ;

hydrological activities undertaken under a sub-contract with ORSTOM (except the Gambia).

The Centre comprises :

the services of a Programme Co-ordinator responsible for the management and implementation of the entire Programme ;

the services of instructors in meteorology (2), agrometeorology (1), climatology (1) and meteorological instruments (1) ;

the services of two experts in operational hydrology responsible for planning and supervising the work of the subcontractor ;

the supply of didactic material.

It is also proposed to add data processing facilities on a regional scale by attaching two experts, providing data processing equipment and a telecommunication network for the collection and redistribution of these data.

The Programme started in 1975. The present post is part of the national project for Niger.

Closing date.—Applications should reach the Secretariat not later than 1st July, 1977.

Strengthening and developing the National Meteorological Office.—The aim of the project in question, which is to run for four years, is to assist the Government in implementing the technical aspects of a presidential decree on setting up a National Meteorological Office. The project is a direct consequence of another one, now in its final stages, for setting up the "Institut hydrométéorologique de formation et de recherche" (IHFR) (Hydrometeorological Training and Research Institute), Oran. Thus the Government decided, as a first step, to provide for the training of meteorologists in sufficient number before setting up a national meteorological service.

Two other projects are underway in Algeria:

the setting up of a regional meteorological centre (numerical forecasting) in conjunction with a telecommunication centre (with assistance of Norway under the WMO Voluntary Assistance Programme).

the strengthening of basic networks for ground and upper-air observation.

The main objectives of the new project are:

to strengthen, expand and maintain synoptic, climatological, rainfall measurement and agrometeorological networks;

to set up the necessary infrastructure for instrument calibration;

to strengthen, expand and maintain the telecommunication network;

to organize the preparation of meteorological bulletins and the dissemination of information and warnings;

to organize the special regional centre in the southern region of Tamanrasset-Assekrem. The activities of this centre are largely concerned with the causes and forecasting of rainfall anomalies.

Six experts will be attached to the project: A Project Co-ordinator and five experts in climatology, agrometeorology, weather forecasting, meteorological instruments and telecommunications. The project also provides for the services of consultants. Fellowships will be awarded to train national staff and funds are provided to procure equipment.

ANNEX

Strengthening and developing the National Meteorological Office.—The aim of the project in question, which is to run for four years, is to assist the Government in implementing the technical aspects of a presidential decree on setting up a National Meteorological Office. The project is a direct consequence of another one, now in its final stages, for setting up the "Institut hydrométéorologique de formation et de recherche" (IHFR) (Hydrometeorological Training and Research Institute), Oran. Thus the Government decided, as a first step, to provide for the training of meteorologists in sufficient number before setting up a national meteorological service.

Two other projects are underway in Algeria:

the setting up of a regional meteorological centre (numerical forecasting) in conjunction with a telecommunication centre (with assistance of Norway under the WMO Voluntary Assistance Programme).

the strengthening of basic networks for ground and upper-air observation.

The main objectives of the new project are:

to strengthen, expand and maintain synoptic, climatological, rainfall measurement and agrometeorological networks;

to set up the necessary infrastructure for instrument calibration;

to strengthen, expand and maintain the telecommunication network;

to organize the preparation of meteorological bulletins and the dissemination of information and warnings;

to organize the special regional centre in the southern region of Tamanrasset-Assekrem. The activities of this centre are largely concerned with the causes and forecasting of rainfall anomalies.

Six experts will be attached to the project: A Project Co-ordinator and five experts in climatology, agrometeorology, weather forecasting, meteorological instruments and telecommunications. The project also provides for the services of consultants. Fellowships will be awarded to train national staff and funds are provided to procure equipment.

*Subject to UNDP approval.
