The daily subsistence allowance rate is subject to change during the assignment.

Short-term experts and consultants are entitled 2½ working days' leave per month or the equivalent in cash for leave not taken. They also benefit from social security arrangements under specified.

General information.—Problems of rapid urbanisation and employment have become serious obstacles to social advancement in Liberia in recent years, particularly in Monrovia which has a rather high annual population growth rate. The Government of Liberia has thus decided, along with other measures, to reassess the operations of the Monrovia Employment Exchange and to upgrade and expand its activities into an efficient employment service with a view to gradually covering the entire modern sector of the economy. The Government's intention also includes the setting up gradually of a number of new employment offices both in Monrovia and other industrial centres.

Description of duties.—Working in close consultation and association with the Ministry of Planning and Economic Affairs and the Ministry of Labour, Youth and Sports, the Consultant will assist in devising, in every aspect and detail, the programme and related project document for the reorganisation, upgrading and expansion of the Monrovia Employment Exchange to ensure its operation as an efficient employment service.

In particular he will—

(a) describe the long term and immediate objectives of the project and propose a comprehensive plan of work, detailing each step to be taken successively in consolidating the job placement activities of the Monrovia employment office;

(b) define the steps and requirements for introducing complementary operations, e.g. the establishment of an effective labour market information system as a regular feature of the employment service activities as well as the collection and processing of occupational information required as a basis for a limited job counselling and career guidance function;

(c) design a programme and activities for gradually setting up a number of new employment offices, both in Monrovia and other industrial centres;

(d) assist in listing and estimating the cost of all necessary inputs for the project to achieve its objectives;

(e) draft an appropriate project budget specifying requirements including both local staff and foreign experts, special training activities including fellowships, necessary premises, equipment including tools, internal and external travel, outside support and project supervision, transport and miscellaneous inputs;

(f) carry out such other wishes of the Government as are consistent and necessary for designing the project document.

Qualifications required.—

(a) University degree will be an advantage, preferably in Public Administration or Economics or Sociology or related subjects.

(b) Thorough understanding of the role, importance and relevance of effective employment service as an instrument of a comprehensive labour and employment policy in collaboration with other government services and institutions, as well as employers' and workers' organisation

(c) Extensive experience in senior positions in manpower and/or employment service units of governments or other public agencies, and full technical knowledge of the functions and operations of a well organised employment service.

Language.—Ability to read, write and speak English very well is essential.

Applications from both men and women will be equally welcome.

Introduction.—The shortage of available land, rented accommodation, capital and related problems provide a major constraint to the growth of small enterprises in Swaziland—either for industrial estates built by the Government or for individual enterprises located independently.

In rural areas, all land is owned by the Swazi nation and is administered and allocated by the local chiefs. The property on this land is mainly traditional housing, given that the system of tenure and lack of infrastructure have not encouraged other developments like small factories or other more modern buildings. In urban areas, there is an apparent shortage of land and rented accommodation for small enterprises. There is also no widespread self-owned or long-leased industrial property in the small enterprise sector.

Description of duties :

I. General.—As adviser to the appropriate government authority, to be determined to carry out discussions with the appropriate government ministries, agencies, chiefs, traditional leaders, entrepreneurs and other bodies and individuals to explore ways how more industrial and commercial property can be developed in Swaziland, especially for small enterprises.

The task of the adviser will be essentially preliminary and exploratory to more substantial follow-up to be undertaken in Swaziland. His task will be to explore some of the main problems and potential solutions, making recommendations for further action.

II. Specific

Urban ("deeded") land

1. Identify, on a sample basis, whether adequate land is available for industrial and commercial development the main urban centres.

2. Identify the alternative funding for land and property :

- (a) for purchase,
- (b) for long-leasing.

3. Explore what different loan and financing arrangements might be developed for (2) above for the following investors :

- (a) the Government ;
- (b) NIDCS, SEDCO and other government agencies ;
- (c) co-operatives (Ministry of Agriculture and Co-operatives) ;
- (d) individual entrepreneurs on SEDCO estates ;
- (e) individual entrepreneurs outside the SEDCO estates.

Rural "national" land :

4. Explore what tenure arrangements may be acceptable to local chiefs for small enterprise development, particular buildings requiring financial or material inputs from other parts of the country.

Other

5. Investigate any other related problems, as appropriate.

6. Prepare a report with findings and recommendations for future action.

Qualifications required.—Somebody, preferably an African, who has experience of development problems of both urban and rural sectors. He should have sensitivity to tradition and custom relating to land and community development and be able to explore legal and financial question relating to property.

Language.—English.

Applications from both men and women will be equally welcome.

General information.—A loan negotiated by the Government of Turkey with the World Bank for the rehabilitation of Turkish ports stipulates a number of technical services which have to be carried out in order to ensure an effective utilisation of the funds. These include an extensive training programme for all levels of Turkish port personnel which has been suggested for UNDP funding and which would be executed by the ILO. An ILO expert who carried out a short-term preparatory mission and prepared a preliminary project document in 1978 has now been assigned as Chief Technical Adviser to initiate the project with, among other tasks, the preparation of a detailed work plan and advice to the responsible authorities on the selection of national personnel to be trained under the project. It is expected that the remaining three experts to be assigned to the project will all be in post as from May 1980.

Description of duties.—Under the supervision of the Chief Technical Adviser and in co-ordination with the competent national authorities and other international experts assigned to the project, the expert will evaluate existing workshop equipment, layout and practices in the main ports of Turkey with a view to assessing the training needs of preventive maintenance personnel to meet the requirements for maintaining and repairing modern cargo handling equipment. On completion of his evaluation the expert will make appropriate recommendations to improve standing practices in the existing and possible future workshops to be put into operation and as far as practical and possible, submit specific proposals for improving the methodology utilised in the workshops, especially those concerned with the maintenance and repair of projected cargo handling equipment and any faults identified in the operation thereof.

Having identified the training needs of the preventive maintenance personnel of the workshops, the expert will advise, and as far as possible assist, the national counterparts in the elaboration of the relevant training programmes and necessary training audio-visual aids, and instruct them in the training methodology to be used. He will supervise the training activities of the project within his field of responsibility, and co-ordinate these with the training in other skills undertaken by the project.

In addition the expert will :

(a) develop the theoretical and practical content of courses for operators of cargo handling equipment ;

(b) prepare course entrance tests where these are applicable, and skill achievement tests for progressive and final assessment of trainees under instruction ;

(c) assess the materials and equipment required for the practical training courses in his field of responsibility ;

(d) follow up on the progress of trainees in his field, in order to obtain feed-back information on the value and suitability of the training ;

(e) give advice in regard to courses to be followed by the national instructors for the purpose of their up-grading ;

(f) train the national counterpart staff under his responsibility in the execution of their duties ;

(g) prepare and submit to the Chief Technical Adviser any reports which the latter may require ;

(h) perform any other duties in connection with his assignment which are within his particular field of competence.

Qualifications required

1. Up-to-date experience and knowledge in the mechanical field of conventional cargo and container handling equipment.

2. Be familiar with the full range of equipment used in container yards, and with the systems used for tracking containers.

3. Experience in assessing training requirements for port personnel involved in container operations and the administration thereof.

4. Up-to-date knowledge of the methodology used and techniques applied in training the categories of personnel mentioned above.

5. Ability to prepare appropriate syllabi and training aids for courses in his field of responsibility ; to determine the number and qualifications of workers to be admitted to each course ; and to train the national instructors in the conducting of the courses to be established.

6. Ability to deal tactfully with the responsible authorities, as well as with port personnel at all levels.

7. Team spirit, imagination and flexibility, enabling him to overcome unexpected difficulties.

Languages.—A satisfactory knowledge of English, including ability to draft well in that language.

Applications from both men and women will be equally welcome.
