Notice is hereby given in terms of section 11 (1) of the Restitution of Land Rights Act, Act No.22 of 1994, as amended, that a claim for restitution of land rights has been lodged on the farms, Rivierplaats 541LQ, Carolina 538 LQ, Duikerfontein 542 LQ, De Hoop 528 LR, Uitvlagte 567 LQ, Sterkwater 560 LR and Spektakel 526 LR, in the District of Waterberg, Limpopo.

Merriss Japie Sethlare and N. I Monyeki lodged claims on the 31st May 1995 on behalf of the Majadibodu community. The said claimants later agree to merge their claims to be treated as one land claim. The Majadibodu community consists of all the individual households and direct descendants of the dispossessed who were removed from these farm from 1928 until 1951. Community members are now residing at Shongoane, Seleka and some members went back to Botswana.

EMPLOYMENT INTENSIVE CONSTRUCTION WORKS

The Construction Industry Development Board (CIDB) is a Schedule 3A public entity established in terms of the Construction Industry Development Board Act, 2000 to stimulate sustainable growth, reform and improvement of the construction sector for effective delivery and the industry's enhanced role in the country's economy.

Section 4 of the Act Tasks the Board to-

- "(c) determine and establish best practice that promotes—
  - (i) improved industry stability;
  - (ii) improved industry performance, efficiency and effectiveness;
  - (iii) procurement and delivery management reform;
  - (iv) improved public sector delivery management;
  - (v) national social and economic objectives, including—
    - (aa) growth of the emerging sector;
    - (bb) labour absorption in the construction industry;
    - (cc) improved labour relations; and
    - (dd) positive safety, health and environmental outcomes;
  - (vi) human resource development in the construction industry;
- (d) promote best practice through the development and implementation of appropriate programmes and measures aimed at best practice and improved performance of public and private sector clients, contractors and other participants in the construction delivery process;
- (e) promote uniform application of policy with regard to the construction industry throughout all spheres of Government;"

After publishing Draft Best Practice for public comment (Board Notice 93 of 2004, Government Gazette No 26825, 01 October 2004) the CIDB has evaluated comment received. In terms of section 4(c) of the Act, the Board has now published Best Practice Labour-Based Methods and Technologies for Employment Intensive Construction Works contained in the schedule hereto.

BEST PRACTICE LABOUR-BASED METHODS AND TECHNOLOGIES FOR EMPLOYMENT-INTENSIVE CONSTRUCTION WORKS

1 PREAMBLE

Engineers have traditionally used their skills and expertise to ensure that structures and their components are serviceable and durable in addition to possessing adequate strength and stability. A well designed structure is, normally, considered to be one which meets these requirements in the most economically efficient manner; least cost being the measure of value for money. Engineers similarly design services using the same approach. In recent years, the concept of "value for money" has been broadened to take cognisance of socio-economic goals.

The Green Paper on Public Sector Procurement Reform in South Africa (1997) proposed that Procurement should facilitate the generation of jobs in South Africa. The White Paper on Creating an Enabling Environment for Reconstruction, Growth and Development in the Construction Industry (1999) expresses the need for public-sector delivery to maximise employment opportunities through labour-intensive construction. It calls for the use of locally based technologies and encourages labour-based construction and materials production.

The Expanded Public Works Programme (EPWP) was launched by the President in 2004 as a national programme embracing all spheres of government and state-owned enterprises. The EPWP responds to poverty and unemployment by bridging the gap between the growing economy and those marginalised from it. The programme creates temporary work opportunities linked to training.

Implementation presupposes that appropriate labour-based methods and technologies are readily available to those engaged in construction works as designers and constructors. The availability, or lack thereof, of appropriate specifications and suitable technology choices can have a marked influence on the degree to which policy and programme goals can be attained through construction works contracts. Appropriate specifications and labour based technologies are required to optimise the engagement of smaller contractors and the increase in employment opportunities per unit of expenditure. The absence of design information on labour based technologies frequently leads to the situation in which only those technologies for which there are adequate design information are considered in the design of a project. Alternatively, labour based technologies are approached circumspectly and conservatively.

2 METHODS FOR IMPLEMENTING LABOUR BASED METHODS IN CONSTRUCTION WORKS PROJECTS

Two alternative procurement approaches to implementing employment-intensive works methods can be adopted:

- Method 1: Lay down the use of specific employment-intensive technologies and methods of construction/ manufacture in the tender document; or
- Method 2: Afford tenderers the opportunity to choose the technology /construction method/method of materials manufacture which they wish to use in order to maximise the participation of labour in construction works and in so doing win bids.

The Guidelines for the Implementation of Labour-Intensive Infrastructure Projects under the Expanded Public Works Programme (EPWP) requires that Method 1 be used in the construction of low volume roads, sidewalks, stormwater drainage and shallow trenches.

- Best Practice Guideline 1 (CIDB document 1022), *An overview of employment-intensive construction works, establishes desirable and appropriate standards, processes, procedures and methods for establishing employment intensive works.

3 LABOUR-BASED CONSTRUCTION METHODS

Earthworks are at the core of most civil engineering construction, especially road construction. For centuries earthworks have been executed using employment intensive methods and there is no doubt that a wide range of earthworks can be executed in this manner. In recent decades, however, most earthworks have been executed using equipment based methods.

It is generally accepted that employment-intensive methods are technically feasible for a wide range of construction activities and can generally produce the same quality of product as equipment-intensive methods. It must be stressed however, that the term "employment-intensive" does not mean that only labour should be used in the construction process, but implies the use of a range of machine/labour combinations, based on considerations of quality, cost and time constraints.

- Best Practice Guideline 2, (CIDB document 1023), *Labour-based construction methods for earthworks, establishes desirable and appropriate standards, processes, procedures and methods in respect of the following employment intensive earthworks activities:
  - clear and grub;
  - excavate, load, haul, unload and spread (ELHUS); and
  - trench excavation and backfill

4 LABOUR-BASED METHODS FOR MATERIALS MANUFACTURE

Precasting is an economical means of producing high-quality concrete items. It is an accepted, proven and traditional method for making items required in buildings and civil engineering such as bricks, blocks, sills, lintels, paving blocks and slabs, kerbs, pipes of small diameter, and retaining blocks. Precast concrete units for the garden – flower pots, trellis supports, security fences, fencing posts, decorative slabs, poles for clothing lines, washbasins, gravestones, flower bed edging, sculptures, bird baths, drainage elements are popular. The range of precast concrete products to be made is only limited by the imagination and market requirements.

The small-scale manufacture of precast concrete products, bricks and blocks is a labour-based form of producing units that can be used in construction and other uses. Production can be carried out in the open, the processes are simple, equipment does not require high capital investment and are employment-intensive. These products are well suited for small scale manufacture.

An alternative to cast insitu concrete masonry units are bitumen emulsion stabilised adobe blocks. Agrément South Africa has in this regard recently developed the BESA Building System (i.e. a bitumen emulsion stabilised adobe blocks and mortar walling system) for single storey houses, schools, clinics and offices which fully complies with all the requirements of National Building Regulations. The BESA Building System is the subject of an open certificate issued by Agrément South Africa, the concept of which is that the technology is not the intellectual property of any company or individual and the information is available to anyone who wishes to use it and is capable of constructing buildings in accordance with the provisions of the certificate.

- Best Practice Guideline 3-1, (CIDB document 1024), *Precast concrete products, brick and block making, establishes desirable and appropriate standards, processes, procedures and methods in respect of a wide range of precast concrete products using the hand methods and light equipment.
- Best Practice Guideline 3-2, (CIDB document 1025), the BESA Building System, establishes desirable and appropriate standards, processes, procedures and methods in respect of walling in buildings comprising bitumen emulsion stabilised adobe blocks and mortar.

5 LABOUR-BASED CONSTRUCTION TECHNOLOGIES

A number of employment-intensive technologies such as rubble masonry construction and water-bound macadam, for various reasons, have fallen into disuse. Researchers and practitioners alike have revisited these technologies in the search for cost effective labour-based technologies which can provide employment for unskilled and semiskilled workers in the fight against poverty. At the same time, new construction technologies have evolved to expand the range of labour-based options available to project implementers.

- The following CIDB Best Practice Guidelines establish desirable and appropriate design and construction standards, processes, procedures and methods:
  - Best Practice Guideline 4-1 (CIDB document 1026), *Labour-based Open Channel Flow Technology;
  - Best Practice Guideline 4-2 (CIDB document 1027), *Rubble masonry dam construction technology;
  - Best Practice Guideline 4-3 (CIDB document 1028), *Rubble masonry concrete arch bridge construction technology;
  - Best Practice Guideline 4-4 (CIDB document 1029), *Foam bitumen gravel;
  - Best Practice Guideline 4-5 (CIDB document 1030), *Cast in-situ block pavements (hysen cells);
  - Best Practice Guideline 4-6 (CIDB document 1031), *Emulsion treated gravel;
  - Best Practice Guideline 4-7 (CIDB document 1032), *Waterbound macadam;
  - Best Practice Guideline 4-8 (CIDB document 1033), *Slurry bound and composite macadams; and
  - Best Practice Guideline 4-9 (CIDB document 1034), *Labour-based methods for unsealed roads.
