The Select Committee on Security and Constitutional Development, on request of the Minister of Justice and Constitutional Development, intends introducing the Traditional Courts Bill in Parliament during January 2012.

Prior to its introduction in the National Assembly in 2008, this Bill was published in Government Gazette No. 30902 of 27 March 2008 in accordance with Rule 241(c) of the Rules of the National Assembly. Public hearings held by the Portfolio Committee on Justice and Constitutional Development on the Bill elicited many submissions relating, among others, to the designation of traditional leaders as presiding officers, the inadequate representation and participation of women, the prohibition on legal practitioners to represent litigants, the exclusion of some structures within the traditional justice system, the nature of some sanctions the traditional courts can impose and the appeal mechanism created in the Bill. The Bill was withdrawn from the National Assembly on 2 June 2011 with the intention to introduce it in its current form in the National Council of Provinces in terms of section 76(2) of the Constitution. Bearing in mind the statutory deadline of 30 December 2012 by when the Bill must be enacted into law, the intention is to have the concerns raised during the parliamentary process in the Portfolio Committee to date, considered and addressed during the parliamentary process in the National Council of Provinces, in addition to any further comments or concerns that might be received.

An explanatory summary of the Bill is hereby published in accordance with Rule 186(1)(a) and (b) of the Rules of the National Council of Provinces.

The Bill aims to affirm the recognition of the traditional justice system and its values, based on restorative justice and reconciliation; to provide for the structure and functioning of traditional courts in line with constitutional imperatives and values; to enhance customary law and the customs of communities observing a system of customary law; and to provide for matters
