SOUTH AFRICAN HERITAGE RESOURCES AGENCY

DECLARATION OF THE OWL HOUSE AND CAMEL YARD AS A NATIONAL HERITAGE SITE

By virtue of the powers vested in the South African Heritage Resources Agency, in terms of section 27 (5) of the National Heritage Resources Act (No. 25 of 1999) SAHRA hereby declares the Owl House and Camel Yard on erf. 306, Nieu-Bethesda, a National Heritage Sites.

Statement of Significance

The Owl House and Camel Yard represent South Africa's foremost example of outsider art. The Owl House and Camel yard were created by Helen Martins and her assistants, most notably, Koos Malgas; and became well-known after the internationally recognised Athol Fugard play, 'The Road to Mecca' in 1984, a play that is still performed worldwide. It was after this play that visitors started looking for the Owl House. Helen Martins is internationally recognised as one of the top ten female and top 13 outsider artists in the world and the Owl House has become a significant tourist destination for the Eastern Cape and South Africa. The Owl House, Camel Yard and context of Nieu-Bethesda form a coherent unity and cannot be considered separately. On the property is the concrete manifestation of the strange and unique world that outsider artist Helen Martins and her assistants (most prominent among them, Koos Malgas) created. The site also acknowledges the role that Koos Malgas played in the making of the sculptures and the collaboration which he shared with Ms. Martins and stands a testament to artistic practice during a time where this sort of collaboration between members of different race groups which was not encouraged.

SOUTH AFRICAN HERITAGE RESOURCES AGENCY

DECLARATION OF THE EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCH COMPLEX AS NATIONAL HERITAGE SITE

By virtue of the powers vested in the South African Heritage Resources Agency, in terms of section 27 (5) of the National Heritage Resources Act (No. 25 of 1999) SAHRA hereby declares the Evangelical Lutheran Church Complex, Erf 9245; Cape Town as a National Heritage Site.

Statement of Significance

The Evangelical Lutheran Church Complex constitutes a multi-layered site with a combination of cultural landscape, architectural, technical and extraordinary social and spiritual significance. It is symbolic of the successful resistance to the Vereenigde Oost-Indische Compagnie ("VOC") domination and a precursor to the freedom of religious worship in South Africa. The site is directly linked, through its archival collection (some dating back as far as the 1740s), with the freeing of slaves and incorporation of freed slaves into the community, and the beginning of institutions of culture and social responsibility. This archival collection is the only known unofficial set of records documenting some of the approaches adopted by a community to resist government oppression, social control and financial sanctions through the baptism of slaves, marriages of freed slave women, and the continued association of those women who were freed and married into the community and brought their children to be baptised in the church. The Church records and correspondence is a unique set of manuscript with the potential to reveal new understandings of ordinary lives at the Cape. The community was made up of slaves, freed slaves (free blacks) and European settlers engaged together in taking care of their fellow members.

Cape Town is the national marker of the origins of the colonisation of South Africa from the 17th century and the introduction of Western hierarchical systems of governance, religion and land transactions which ultimately changed the face of Southern Africa. The Church is the oldest remaining intact church building in Cape Town, the first church of any denomination other than Dutch Reformed in South Africa, and the first Lutheran Church in Africa. Sites and buildings that are significant as markers of the early period of colonial settlement and contain intact building complexes (as opposed to symbolic remnants) are extremely rare. Sites that were not government sites within that period are rarer still. The Lutheran Church complex is the only site in the Cape Town City Centre that contains authentic and largely intact remains of VOC era urban ensemble of private, public (and not owned by the VOC) and utilitarian buildings dating to the 18th Century.

The site is a major node in Cape Town's cultural landscape with the Martin Melck House being the last remaining dakkamer style town house in Cape Town. The Complex also has outstanding technical excellence, with the largest single roof span under a flat roofed structure during the VOC period and the largest unsupported triangulated timber roof truss from the early British period. In addition, the site has the only known masonry spiral stair in Cape Town and one of very few cast iron front gates remaining from that time. The pipe organ is the oldest large pipe organ in the Cape and was installed in 1820. The first, and most substantial body of works of Anton Anreith, renowned Baroque sculptor of that era, are found at the site as well.

SIGNED ON:

DEPARTMENT OF TRADE AND INDUSTRY
NOTICE 769 OF 2017

INTERNATIONAL TRADE ADMINISTRATION COMMISSION OF SOUTH AFRICA

INVESTIGATION INTO REMEDIAL ACTION IN THE FORM OF A SAFEGUARD AGAINST THE INCREASED IMPORTS OF COLD-ROLLED STEEL PRODUCTS:
FINAL DETERMINATION

On 29 July 2016, the International Trade Administration Commission of South Africa (the Commission) initiated an investigation for remedial action in the form of a safeguard against the increased imports of cold-rolled steel products through Notice No. 469 of Government Gazette No. 40171 dated 29 July 2016.

The application was lodged by the South African Iron and Steel Institute (SAISI), a non-governmental representative organization serving the collective interests of the primary steel industry in South Africa (the Applicant) on behalf of ArcelorMittal South Africa (AMSA) the major producer of cold-rolled steel products (the subject product), representing the Southern African Customs Union (SACU) industry.

The investigation was initiated after the Commission considered that there was prima facie evidence to show that events cited by the Applicant can be regarded as unforeseen developments, which resulted in a surge in imports of the subject product, causing serious injury to the SACU industry.

On initiation of the investigation, the World Trade Organisation (WTO), and the countries with a significant interest in the exports of the subject product were notified of the initiation of the investigation.

The Commission made a preliminary determination that there were unforeseen developments which resulted in the increased imports. The Commission further made a preliminary determination that there was a surge in imports of the subject product, causing serious injury to the SACU industry.

The Commission however made a preliminary determination not to request the Commissioner for South African Revenue Service (SARS) to impose a provisional payment since it was considered that the initiation of the safeguard investigation may already have had an effect of deterring imports to a certain extent and that the increase in the ordinary customs duty may also have had a positive effect on the industry's situation. The Commission further took into consideration the magnitude of the duty on the question of preventing the worsening of the state of the industry during the period it would take to finalise the investigation.

The Commission issued Report No. 537 containing its preliminary determination and invited interested parties to comment on its preliminary determination.

On 29 November 2016 a public hearing was held where interested parties could address the Commission on whether a safeguard measure would be in the public interest.

Taking all the information available to it into account, including all comments received during the investigation, the Commission made a final determination that there was a surge in the volume of imports of the subject product into the SACU market as a result of unforeseen circumstances and that the increase in imports was causing serious injury to the SACU industry. However, in calculating the possible measure to be imposed, it was determined that the Applicant was not experiencing a price disadvantage when comparing its unsuppressed selling price with the landed price of the imports.

Based on this, the Commission made a final determination to recommended to the Minister of Trade and Industry that this investigation be terminated. The Minister approved the Commission's recommendations. The Commission's detailed reasons for its final determination are set out in Commission Report No. 555 (final determination report).

Enquiries may be directed to the investigating officers, Mr Zuko Ntsangani at telephone number +27 12 394 3662 or Mr Busman Makakola at telephone number +27 12 394 3380 or at fax +27 12 394 0518.
